ST. PAT'S—SEASON OF 1916.

The fates were working hand in hand with the St. Pat's committee to make this day of days the big success it turned out to be. Never since any "old boy" can remember have we had such glorious weather, such a crowd of visitors, nor such wonderful and efficient preparation, for the reception of the most famous of all engineers, St. Pat, of Ireland. His coming had been duly announced by means of posters and divers other methods of transferring thot from one brain to another.

Mechanical Hall was the first center of activities from 6 A. M. to 8:30 (the actual starting time of the parade.) About twenty-five floats were receiving their finishing touches before venturing on the cruise thru the streets of Rolla. There were pack mules, calves, cows, (dogs, too), pseudo class rooms, mine displays, camp outfits, and floats of almost every description. Every club, fraternity, state and nation was in evidence; even the co-eds were represented. It was an impressive sight as they lined up for Jim Bock's command to start.

The "Dutch" army, under the supreme command of Gen. Dawson, formed the vanguard of the long procession. Then followed St. Pat and his retinue of knights, pages and attendants. St. Pat came into Rolla on the hand car at 9 A. M. sharp (over Frisco tracks.) His coming was heralded by several salutes from the army equipment. He then took over the situation as master of all ceremonies.

As the parade wandered thru town one could hear many expressions of praise and favorable comment on the originality and workmanship of the floats. All of the professors came in for their share of good-natured kidding, and practically all phases of class-room life, were depicted in humorous style. War in Europe also had its effect on the floats. Did you see the armored cars, submarines and soldiers? Mining in all its branches was given much prominence also, and served to show the public that not everything in a Miner's brain savors of ridicule and foolishness.

After winding its tortuous course thru the streets of the town, the spectators adjourned to the main entrance of Parker Hall to witness the knighting ceremonies, and other incidents in conjunction with it. About four or five hundred people "kow-towed" to St. Pat upon his arrival on the platform, followed by his pages, secretaries and cloak-bearers. Having finished his speech of welcome, "St. Pat" Reilly proceeded to bestow the coveted diplomas onto his worthy knights who had followed him thru four long years of trials and tribulations, from which no man escapes during college life.

With appropriate admonitions and jests he went down the long list of nobles, fulfilling his duty of Patron Saint in admirable fashion. Next, he called upon several prominent alumni and faculty members to kiss the "Blarney," and share in the advantages given to true Knights of St. Pat. Profs. Wilkinson, Frame, Risher, Dennie, and Messrs. Moll and F. L. Johnson were honored in this manner. When the knighting was finished St. Pat concluded with a few remarks for the good of all, including the announcement of the Minstrel Show in the afternoon, and his last appearance at the grand ball in the evening.

MINSTREL SHOW.

A striking feature of the day was the show in the afternoon. Owing to the foresight of the committees a limited number of invitations had been sent out, and it appeared that every one had responded, for never had Parker Hall been so well attended. However, except in the case of those who came late, extra chairs squeezed into odd places accommodated many, and all inconveniences were amply rewarded by the splendid entertainment.

The "Squint Behind the Walls," by R. Henschel, proved very humorous in its touches of local color, as portrayed by Householder, Deckmeyer, Scruby and Goldsmith.

As "terpsichorists," Ebmeier and Greenburg could give a few points to the Castles, and were loudly applauded.

Bates and Bohart, after an able exchange of repartee, surprised their audience with a little "trick play." Many are still wondering how it was done.

Massey and Dawson brought down the house with their strong arm act. Luckily the wire held and things went very smoothly. As will be remembered, last year the famous wire parted company, much to the discomfiture of the actors.

The Mandolin Club, composed of Burnet, Ambler, Wilkinson and Smith, put on their usual brand of harmony, which was eagerly appreciated and encored.

Bates, Murphy, Goldsmith and Deckmeyer, end men in the minstrel, kept laughter rippling throughout the house. Some of their jokes were particularly refreshing, and quite a few of the audience were subjected to their wit.

However, were it not for the chorus, the minstrel would not have been as great a success. Too much credit cannot be given to Scruby, Dobie, Stoner and Householder for their singing and backing. As an interlocutor, Stoner proved a good selection. He had the quiet dignity, with a dull humor that made all follow the end men's jokes and do more than smile.

The Entertainment Committee is to be congratulated upon their work. The show was a success, and certainly enjoyed by all.

ST. PAT'S BALL.

At 8 o'clock the doors of Jackling Gym were thrown open to welcome all to the enjoyment of St. Pat's generosity. The hall was exquisitely decorated with pennants, beautiful cupolas of appropriate colors, and, in fact, with everything necessary to bring forth the spirit of lavishness and abundance so characteristic of St. Pat and his loyal cohorts. Nothing was left undone in the scheme of things to make this an event long to be remembered. Cicardi's famous orchestra outdid itself in its efforts to entice soothing melodies from those stringed instruments of Pan.

In the north end of the hall was the empty throne of St. Patrick, waiting to be filled by the High Chief as soon as he had made his appearance. At nine o'clock the hall was filled with masked dancers, dressed in all kinds of costumes. Pierrots, sailors, Turks, naval and army officers, Scotch Highlanders, gypsies and oriental maids, were only a small part of this cosmopolitan array. Everybody was waiting. You ask for what? Why, for St. Pat and his Queen, of course.

Our distinguished guests were heralded at 9:30 P. M. (Dublin time), and immediately at his command everybody "kow-towed." They passed thru the human canyon of prostrate forms, and arrived safely at the throne, from whence St. Pat bade the multitude arise, and form in line for the grand march. Conservative estimates put the number of couples in the march at one hundred and sixty-five. Many did not enter, and the whole crowd of dancers probably numbered near two hundred couples.

Miss Mary McCrae as Queen displayed all of the qualities that go with such high honor. St. Pat surely had an eye for beauty among his many other traits of character. The Queen was dressed in a wonderful gown of silk, with ermine trimmings, as well as with a coronet of sparkling diamonds. Little Margaret McCrae and Catherine Culbertson acted as train bearers.

After viewing the great assemblage with a gleam of satisfaction in his kindly eyes, St. Pat announced in a low, husky voice that his next appearance at M. S. M. would occur on March 17, 1917. He bade every one God-speed, and departed.

Unmasking took place immediately after the Saint's departure, and the regular dances were in order. It was four o'clock in the morning when the last of dancers disappeared, too tired to go home, but still professing that the St. Pat's celebration of 1916 was the best ever in the history of M. S. M.

Allison-Bentley Cup Series.

At a meeting held in the "Miner" office last Monday afternoon, the captains of most of the teams were on hand to discuss plans for opening the Annual frat-club baseball league. Rules were formulated as regards to those eligible to play in these games. After talks by Coach Dennie and several others, the following rules were drawn up:

Rule I. Both fraternities or clubs must only play bonafide members of such organizations. They must be students or faculty members of M. S. M.

Rule II. All baseball "M" men are barred from participation in the games of this league.

Rule III. Varsity squad men. (barring "M" men) may play, but must play a different position than their usual one on the varsity squad. That is, an infielder must either pitch, catch, or play in the outfield: an outfielder must either pitch or catch, or play in the infield, etc.

Rule IV. If a team fails to put in its appearance within thirty (30) minutes of the time the game is originally scheduled for, that team will forfeit the game to its opponent.

Rule V. All games to be of seven innings duration, except in case of a tie when the captains can agree on additional innings to decide the game.

Several other rules of minor importance were discussed and then the drawing for games commenced. Twelve teams are in the league. The order in which they play follows:

1st. game: Kappa Sigs vs Independents.

2nd game: Corsairs vs McDermott's.

3rd game: Pi Kappa Alpha vs Kappa Alpha.

4th game: Sigma Nu vs Muckers.

5th game: Grubstakers vs Bonanza.

6th game: Prospectors vs Beanery.

Coach Dennie and Ebmeyer

are the schedule committee, and these games will be started as soon as possible, probably about April 1.

The captains present were the following:

Shipley—Kappa Sig.

Schuman—Independents.

Young—Corsairs.

Krause—McDermotts.

Ambler—Sigma Nu.

Lyons—Muckers.

Strawn—Bonanza.

Hoppock—Grubstakers.

Ebmeyer—Prospectors.

Capt. Doeling, (P. K. A.)

Tompkins, (K. A.) and Doyle (Beanery), could not be there.

Coach Dennie represented the athletic association.

Senior Notes.

E. S. Tompkins left on No. 4 Tuesday for New Jersey, where he will take a position with the New Jersey Zinc corporation.

The C. E.'s planned a week end trip to the Gasconade this week but unless the weather changes they will be unable to go.

Earl Jones left Sunday for Joplin where he intends to work. Earl believes in going early to the rush.

The men who have not paid the last Senior assessment are requested to do so at once. The St. Pat's banner is to be raffled Monday noon in the Metallurgy lecture room, and unless you have paid the assessment you will not get a chance on it.

B. L. Ashdown will make a talk Sunday night at the Methodist Church.

E. B. Weiberg was paid a visit by his father last Saturday.

The Senior examinations will take place the last week in April and the Senior trip will be made during first three weeks of May.

Lumaghi made a trip to St. Louis last Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. C. Willson, of St. Louis, formerly Miss Jean Harris, returned home for St. Pat's.

J. G. (Pat) Reilly as St. Pat.

There had been quite a little speculation prior to St. Pat's day as to the identity of the good Saint, but upon realization all hopes were well fulfilled in the excellent selection. Reilly as St. Pat, was undoubtedly the best man, and proved it.

As an orator his voice was well heard, and excellently modulated. Surely it was the old Irish of ancient forefathers that brot out the nice brogue and charmed all with wit and eloquence. Each fortunate novice for knighthood was cordially received, and growth and outcrop of moustache touched upon.

Quite a few of the good old Saint's remarks were well placed, which caused not a little merriement among spectators.

It was evidenced that Reilly had certainly prepared himself for the occasion. His speech was neither halting nor forced, and his delivery was natural and smooth. The Junior Class is to be congratulated upon this selection.

St. Pat also carried himself with the same dignity and grace in the evening at the ball, and at his imperial "Kow-Tow!" young and old eagerly obeyed.

Miss Mary McCrae was a most delightful choice for Queen, and and made a charming consort for the Mighty Engineer. There was, however, one regret; after all is said and done, all her admiring subjects could not have the pleasure of a dance with her.

This year's St. Pat was a huge success, and that success can only be attributed to the personality of the Saint, reinforced by the hearty co-operation of the Junior Class.

Dr. L. E. Young, former Director of the School of Mines, is head of the department of commerce in the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill.

Miss Ruth Eversole, a teacher in Mary Institute, St. Louis, was the guest of Miss Zoe Harris during St. Pat's.

Miller-Ary Announcement.

Last Wednesday afternoon at a delicious luncheon, which was served after a card party at the home of Miss Florence Ary, the announcement of the hostess' engagement to Mr. E. A. Miller was made.

Miss Ary is one of Rolla's popular young ladies and Mr. Miller is a member of the class of '16. "Kelly," as he is generally known, is one of the most popular students of M. S. M. He is well known as a football player, having played on the varsity eleven during each of his four school years. He is one of the best players ever turned out at M. S. M. and as a token of esteem he was awarded at the close of last season, a gold watch charm for making four successive M's. "Kelly" has also held down second base on the baseball team ever since he entered school.

The young couple will be married May 2nd, and will leave immediately for Globe Arizona where Mr. Miller has accepted a position with the Old Dominion Copper Co. The Miner, together with their many friends, wishes them the greatest happiness and success.

Junior Notes.

Last Friday we received quite a shock on noting that the Sophomores flag was hoisted at half mast over the Geological Survey Building. Immediately grave thoughts passed thru our minds as to what could have happened to our Sophomores to cause them to go into mourning on such a day. Later our fears were allayed when we found that the flying at half mast was entirely unintentional. We were then greatly relieved, for the cloud of doubt was lifted, but we were sorry that the accident destroyed the end for which the flag was put there.

Shriver and Brown had enough pep left after St. Pats for a hike to Gourd Creek Cave last Sunday.

Clayton and Misses Mary McCrae, Helen Baysinger, Grace Powell and Josephine Farris, of Rolla, and George Clayton, Hannibal.

The Sigma Nu fraternity entertained the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Head, Moberly, Mo., Mrs. Ambler and Mrs. Kolbe, St. Louis, and Misses Majorie Head, Moberly, Nelle Butts, Mary Farrar, Fannie MacKesson and Elizabeth Casey, Lebanon, Mo., Gladys and Dorothy Woodson, Springfield, Mo., Mary Kehrmann, St. Louis, and Emma Smith, of Newburg.

The following guests were at the Kappa Sigma House: Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bowles, and Miss Helen Bowles of East St. Louis, Miss Marie Stifel and Edmee Conrades, of St. Louis.

The Muckers Club was host to the following: Misses Wadella Emrich and Tincy Stough, Springfield, Mona Fleming, Helen Kendall, Dorothea Rudolph, Eva Wilson and Messrs. N. B. Johnson and J. H. Wortham, St. Louis, Misses Lula and Georgia McComb, St. James, and Miss Marian Knapp, Rolla, and Messrs. J. A. Kluge, Collinsville, Ill., A. L. Weeks, Arenzville, Ill., and E. E. McCann, Monroe, City, Mo. This party was chaperoned by Mrs. R. M. Shaver and Mrs. H. R. McCaw, of Rolla.

The visitors at the Pi Kappa Alpha house last week were: W. A. Scothorn, of Junction City, Kansas, Mrs. Gill, of Montgomery City, Mo. and W. C. Adams, '17, of Tulsa, Okla.

Harry and Max Gold to Appear in Rolla April 1st.

The Miner takes pleasure in announcing the appearance of Masters Harry and Max Gold at Parker Hall Saturday, April 1st, under the auspices of the Athletic Association. Harry is a pupil of Mr. Jacob Blumberg, first violinist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. He will play on a rare violin, with which Mr. Blumberg has won fame in Europe, and upon which he played when he won first prize in a competitive contest in Brussels in 1906. The prize consisted of a violin valued at several thousand dollars. Max, although hardly big enough to reach the piano pedals, possesses unusual talent and ability. This will probably be the last appearance of the boys in Rolla, as they intend to travel through the East in the near future.

ORIGIN OF ORE DEPOSITS.

Colorado Mining Camp Subject of Government Report.

The attention of prospectors, miners, and students of ore deposits is called to the fact that the United States Geological Survey has just issued for free distribution, in advance of a larger report now in preparation, a short treatise on the economic geology of Gilpin County, Colo. — a paper describing the granite and porphyries and the origin, character, relation and age of the ore deposits in and around Central City. The mines are not described individually in this advance report, the principal subject discussed being the origin of ores. The mining camps in the district are large producers of precious metals and will continue to produce for years to come. The present report offers suggestions as to the character of ore likely to be found at greater depths and expounds principles of ore deposition which should be of value in the development of mines in this and in other districts where the geologic relations are similar. The discussions of downward enrichment and of the relation of mineralization to volcanism will be interesting chiefly to those who deal directly with ore deposits in either a practical or theoretical way. This summary of the more important results of an exhaustive geologic study of Gilpin County, Colo., can be had from the Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., by asking for Bulletin 620-M.

Sophomore Column.

THE BIG DAY of the year in the life of our M. S. M. is over. We are proud to say that our class contributed its share to welcome old St. Pat., and that every bit of our contribution was a complete success. We will not stop to describe our floats, as the description would take too much room, but everyone saw Dean's Powerless Motor, our Engineer's Float and News from the Front Float. They plainly showed the originality and practical spirit, of going into things, of our Float committee, which brought our contribution in the parade through with high credit, and we wish to thank the committee in the name of old St. Pat and of the Sophomore class for their successful work.

It was the strict, prompt attention to committee work and other class duties that has given us the reputation of having put the best floats on record. Such are the characteristics which go toward making our class highly distinctive, exceptional, and now we all rush with the same spirit to our books and prepare for the finals which soon will be upon us.

Our wireless float reports the following news from the front:

W. C. Zeuch and C. E. Bardsley visited the school at Corinth Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in the recitation of many great poems and dialogue by the pupils. A very flowery oration was delivered by C. E. Bardsley on the Educational System in St. Louis. Walter Zeuch concluded the afternoon program by very willingly telling how they haze Freshmen at the Missouri School of Mines.

Prof: What animal lives on the least food?

Freshman: The moth, it eats holes.

Revised Proverbs.

Always put off at night what you are going to put on in the morning.

Whatever a man seweth, that shall he rip.

Absence makes the marks grow rounder.

P. B. Shotwell, of Chihuahua, Mexico and H. E. Spickard, of Des Moines, Iowa were visitors at the Pi K. A. House last week. They left on Tuesday of this week for Joplin, Mo. where they expect to work in the mines.

Larry Maher's father was a visitor in Rolla all last week.

Next week's Sophomore Column will be written by "Mike" Shonfeld. Let's make the next column a big one.

Clem Hippard recently received a letter from Allen Potts stating that he was now working in Rockford, Ill., and would be back for school next September. Allen expressed his wishes for a big St. Pat and his desire to be with us. His present address is 703 N. Church St., Rockford, Ill.

Prof. Dean's paper on "The Calculation of the Long Distance Transmission Line Under Constant Alternating Voltage," which was printed in the Monthly Proceedings of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and presented at the October meeting in St. Louis, has been selected for publication in the Annual Transactions of the Institute. Only the more important papers and discussions are printed in the Transactions which form a permanent record of the progress of Electrical Engineering.

Prof. Dean is again at work on his dynamo and expects to have it in operation before commencement day. It will be a direct-current generator, non-sparking and without armature reaction.

Love and Chapin, of the St. Louis Republic, took in the St. Pat. celebration. Their write-up of the event will probably be in the Republic for Sunday, March 26, 1916.

Professor C. B. Forbes Presides.

Mr. H. T. Schiermeyer, president of the Y. M. C. A. of the Missouri School of Mines, spoke on the history of that organization last Sunday evening at the Methodist Church. He was introduced by Professor C. R. Forbes who presided during the services of the evening.

Besides giving a short history of the national association, Mr. Schiermeyer told of several instances in which the Y. M. C. A. accomplished much in elevating the mental, moral and spiritual attitudes of whole communities. He ended his talk by expressing the hope that the Y. M. C. A. would become a leading feature in school life at M. S. M. Walter Scott played a saxophone solo.

Rev. Hanby then delivered a lecture sermon on a "Parable from Physics" in which he used the conservation, dissipation, and transformation of energy as the basis of his text. The lesson which his lecture taught was very clear and should be remembered by all who were present.

When patrons of the Rollamo Theatre on Saturday get their first glimpse of the newly formed Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation's, "The Master of House," they will see for the first time on the screen the work of one of the foremost and the most powerful dramatic character portrayals, Mr. Julius Steger, who, during a run of "The Master of the House," at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, created a new vogue in stage husbands. "The Master of the House," a virile and potent story with unusual heart-interest, tells of a husband who tires of his devoted wife, who, after a brief career in the brilliant lights, returns a sadder, wiser and penitent man.

Send the MINER home. The folks will be glad to get it.
