Annual Alumni Fund . . . 1980-Another Record Year

Gift income is up again! Between January 1, 1980, and December 31, 1980, it totaled $196,709.72 compared to $172,672.91 in 1979, $136,182.48 in 1978, and $132,121.65 in 1977. Interest income added $9,106.12 to the 1980 total.

Individuals contributed $119,019.29 to the Alumni Annual Fund and an additional $37,564.95 to designated programs. Corporate matching gifts added $36,600.48 to the Annual Fund and $3,525.00 to designated programs.

Where the Money Goes . . .

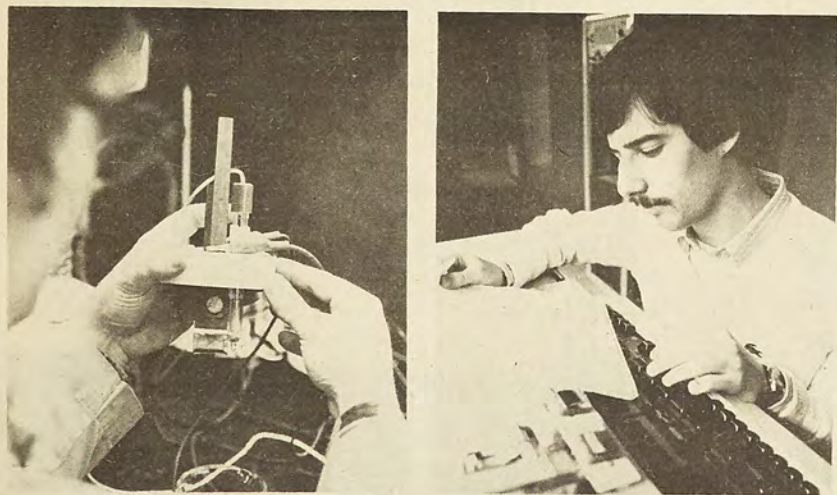

Photographs on the cover and this page illustrate two of the ways funds donated by alumni and friends are used to supplement tax support at UMR.

The cover (and below, right) pictures Paul G. Baldetti, senior in electrical engineering who has received an Alumni Association Special Scholarship. He is shown reading data from a spectrophotometer.

Development Funds (from the Alcoa Foundation and Emerson Electric Company) made possible the purchase of this machine by supplying half its cost of $30,000. The spectrophotometer measures optical absorbance as a function of wave length for semi-conductor thin film made in the laboratory by graduate student Robert Engelken (below left). Purpose of the project is to develop a low-cost fabrication method of semi conductor film where absorption of solar energy and conversion to electrical energy takes place.

The two photos at right illustrate a student assistants project supported by the Alumni Fund.

Students in an engineering mechanics' materials testing lab (EM-120) are shown (top) taking data on load deformation. These students used to make graphs of the data by hand in order to solve assignment problems. Kim Kimmel (lower photo), under the direction of Professor Myron Parry, developed a program whereby students can now feed the data to a computer and the computer makes the graphs for them to use in solving the problems.

MSM ALUMNUS (USPS-323-500)

Issued bi-monthly in the interest of the graduates and former students of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy and the University of Missouri-Rolla. Entered as second class matter October 27, 1926, at Post Office at Rolla, Missouri 65401, under the Act of March 3, 1897.

University Development Fund Sets New Record

We have enjoyed our participation in a truly magnificent chapter in the history of the University of Missouri-Rolla. History has indeed been made by the University Development Fund. The securing of $2,011,086.04 in gifts during 1980 is an advance in private fund raising that will never be forgotten and will benefit the University of Missouri-Rolla for many years.

Gifts to the Development Fund took many forms, included are a precious gem collection, an active mining claim, and computer hardware. The majority of the gifts were cash and securities. More than 2,700 gifts were received and processed during the year. Many of these gifts were from individuals, corporations, and foundations who had never previously made a gift to the University of Missouri-Rolla.

These results can be reported in part because more volunteers worked on behalf of the University than ever before in our history. These dedicated alumni, parents, and friends, led by the Development Council, came from across the State of Missouri and from throughout the nation. The efforts of these people will result in greater dimensions in the excellence of the University's fund raising activities.

The Golden Shillelagh, the University's major gift club, increased its membership during the year from 53 to 58.

Order of the Golden Shillelagh

The Order of the Golden Shillelagh was established on Founder's Day in 1977, to recognize the many alumni and friends who provide significant support to the University.

In addition to the written acceptance to membership, there are several options a person may select to earn membership in the group. One is a pledge of $10,000 during a ten-year period at a rate of not less than $1,000 a year. Another is a single gift of $10,000 or more. A planned gift by means of a charitable trust, bequest, life insurance, or other, of at least $15,000 also qualifies as does a combination of current and planned gifts amounting to $12,500.

Expanded Summer Session

In addition to increased course offerings, the 1981 summer session at UMR will offer students several options in terms of course length and scheduling.

For the first time, several six-week summer courses will be offered, as well as eight- and four-week courses. The four-week courses were introduced last summer.

"The six-week courses are an experiment," said Dr. Tomlinson Fort Jr., UMR provost. "We designed the summer program in a way that we thought would best meet students' needs and make the most efficient use of University facilities and resources.

"We also felt that some topics were best suited for the six-week format, rather than the eight or four," he added. "The six weeks format also cuts the summer neatly in half, making it possible for a student to both attend school and work during the summer."

Courses to be offered on a six-week basis are: Economics 215, Quantitative Economic Analysis; English 210, Seminar; History 307, The Making of Modern Russia; and Speech and Media Studies 101, Mass Media and Society.

UMR's summer session will begin with the six week sessions on May 18. Preregistration for the summer session will be from April 27 to May 1 and regular registration will take place on June 1. The two four-week summer sessions will run from June 2 to June 26 and June 29 to July 25 and the eight week session from June 2 to July 25.

"The four-week sessions, which we began last year, offer students and faculty flexibility and increased opportunity," said Paul Ponder, UMR registrar. "An incoming freshman who attends an orientation session in June may find, through testing conducted at that time, that he or she could use some extra math. This student then could enroll in a math course offered during the second four-week session and get his or her college career off on the right foot.

"And because our curriculum contains many courses that are prerequisites for advanced work," he continued,

"students can take the prerequisite courses in the first four-week session and the advanced course during the second four weeks. This could save some students an entire semester in their scheduling."

Students enrolled in four-week sessions are limited to three credit hours per session and those enrolled in the eight-week session are limited to a total of eight or nine credit hours, depending on the courses taken. Students may take eight-, six- and four-week courses in combination, but are limited to ten credit hours total for the summer.

MINER SPORTS...

Gene Green, Editor

UMR Athletic Director Billy Key addresses appreciative Rolla football fans.

Rolla Community Honors Football Team

On Jan. 29, the college football team with the longest winning streak in the nation savored victory once again when the Rolla area paid a special tribute to the Miner team.

A "Miner Football Community Recognition Banquet" was sponsored by the Rolla area Chamber of Commerce and several Rolla civic and service organizations. The festivities were held at UMR's Centennial Hall in the University Center East.

The Miners, under the direction of MIAA and District Coach-of-the-Year Charlie Finley, finished the 1980 slate with a perfect 10-0. In producing the first undefeated football season at MSM/UMR in 66 years, the Miners led the nation's Division II teams in rushing defense.

Talking about the season, Coach Finley told the group, "I think coaches always wonder when a year starts out what's in store for them. We knew we had a good group of men...but we didn't know how we were going to perform.

"After the first two ballgames," he continued, "I really had some mixed emotions about our team's chances. We were playing excellent defense and we had improved our offense. But our biggest test was yet to come in the meeting with 8th ranked Pittsburgh State University. Our 14-10 win over Pittsburgh State was probably the turning point in our season.

"Each game after this one became the most important game, and it's very difficult, I think, for anyone to say which one of these games was the most important. Four others stick out in my mind...The Southwest Missouri State game simply because it was Southwest...Central Missouri State because we didn't play so well and still won...Southeast because we were 23-7 behind and came back to win.. and Northeast because it was the end of it and we were 10-0."

Responding to the accolades given him personally, Coach Finley said, "I've received more honors this year than I ever dreamed of, but it wouldn't have all been possible without a tremendous coaching staff and a very dedicated team. To those individuals, and to the fine group of senior leaders we had this season, I say a sincere thank you."

Individual plaques (supplied by the MSM-UMR Alumni Association) were presented to the players and coaches during the banquet.

Swimmers Dominate MIAA Foes

The UMR swimming team continued to dominate their foes, as they came off their break and clubbed the first three teams to face them.

The Miners tripped Central Missouri 73-36 and University of Missouri-St. Louis 70-37 in action Jan. 10, while they blasted Southeast Missouri 66-47 in a meeting of the two top conference schools Jan. 16.

Junior diver Ray Gill continued to dominate the board events, winning the one and three-meter battles in the two meets. Gill, who qualified for both boards in national competition a year ago, was picking up where he left off.

Pease still looks for Southeast Missouri and Southwest Missouri to be formidable conference opponents when the Miners host the 1981 MIAA Championships March 5-7 at the Bullman Multi-Purpose Center.

Another Miner who has been doing an excellent job is sophomore Mike Shive, who won the 50-yard free style and 100-yard free style events against Southeast Missouri and the 50-yard free style event against Central Missouri and UMSL.

Pease had said earlier in the season that one of the Miner weaknesses may be in the lack of depth in the free style races, but Shive was helping pick up the slack.

"The team is really looking sharp and I think we will be ready to turn things on strong for the second half of the season," Pease said. "Our goal is always the national competition."

Miner meets in March: March 5-7—MIAA Championships at Rolla; March 19-21—NCAA Division II Championships at Youngstown, Ohio, and March 26-68—NCAA Division I Championships at Austin, Tex.

Miners Open

Indoor Track Season

The UMR indoor track season opened on Jan. 27, ushering in a seven-week series of events for Dewey Allgood's crew.

Most of Allgood's cross country team are competing in track this season, so the team is well represented in the distance events. Senior Brent Haefner mans the 10,000 and 5,000 meter races, with Todd Blackford and David Moore competing in the 5,000 and 3,000 meter events.

The mile run finds Miners Mark Stucky, Jim Bullard and Clint Campbell competing.

The sprinting ranks are the thinnest, with little depth. Returning lettermen Rick Lux, Rod Rogers, Craig Heath and Rick Welsh carry most of the sprinting load.

Lux holds the team record in the 600-yard run and in the 800-meter events.

In field events, the Miners have six returning squad members on hand. The shot put may be the strongest event, with Bill Loving, Steve Bridgman and Greg Harvey available. Doug Keithly throws the discus, with Mike Biega at triple jump and Bob Benson manning the pole vault and firing the javelin.

Grapplers Boast 5-4 Mark In Early Going

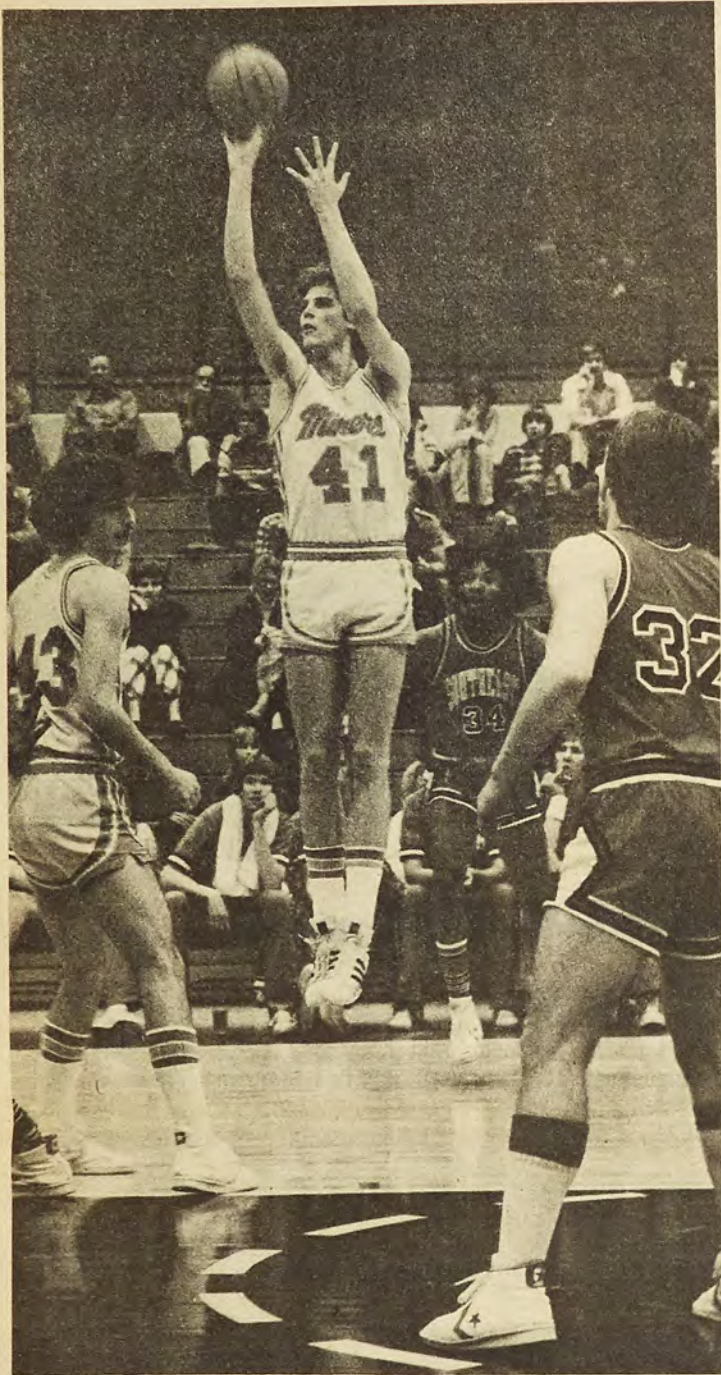

With a dual meet record of 5-4, the Miner wrestling team entered the second half of their schedule with many new faces and some reason for optimism.

After the first two months of the season, Scott Chalmers (150 pounds) paced the team in wins with a 9-5 record, while senior leader Bill Spencer (177 pounds) was logging an 8-2 mark. Fred Kummer (134 pounds) was at 5-3, with Rick Booth (158 pounds) at 3-1. Todd Meyer (142 pounds) had an even 1-1 mark.

After returning from a long break, the Miners finished eighth in the MacMurray Tournament Jan. 9-10, then whipped Lincoln 39-12 and lost to Northwest Missouri 44-3 in dual meet action at Maryville Jan. 15.

The team returned to Rolla for a double dual Jan. 17, and fell to Southwest Missouri 47-0 and lost to Southeast Missouri 34-17. The team had late month meets set with Southwest Missouri (tournament) Jan. 23-24 and at Washington University (tournament) Jan. 30-31.

Going into that action, the Miners were led in team points by Spencer (38½), match points by Chalmers (99) and takedowns by Chalmers (19). Chalmers also had the most escapes (15) and most three-point near falls (6). Miner 167-pounder Dave Clifton had the most reversals (11), with Chalmers and Spencer tied for the most two-point near falls (5).

Jeff Kipp leads Miners in scoring with 17.1 ppg.

Miners Set For MIAA Stretch Run

After posting six consecutive victories from Nov. 29 through Jan. 10, injuries began to attack the Miner men's basketball team. Following an exciting 71-69 victory over Southeast Missouri State Jan. 7, the club saw three starters hampered by various mishaps.

"The main thing we need to do is get healthy," said UMR head coach Billy Key. Among the key performers affected were starting forward Rick Fuerman (knee injury), starting forward Jeff Davis (back spasms) and starting center Jeff Kipp (flu).

The last time the Miners had all the players healthy at the same time was in the Missouri Southern Green and Gold Classic Jan. 2-3. UMR captured both games of that event, clubbing Pittsburg State 80-59 and besting host Missouri Southern 79-65.

In the win over Missouri Southern, Kipp pulled down a school-record 23 rebounds and scored 20 points. In the win over Pittsburg State, Davis had 20 points and 18 rebounds.

With enthusiasm and momentum tucked away, the Miners traveled to Cape Girardeau Jan. 7 for their conference opener with Southeast Missouri State. Picked to finish second in the pre-season conference poll, the Indians could not defeat the determined group of Miners.

UMR led 42-36 at the half, and jumped the lead up to 14 points early in the second 20 minutes of play before an injury happened—Fuerman's knee was reinjured. Coming off knee surgery in mid-December, Fuerman had returned to the Miner lineup in Joplin and had performed well. The knee appeared to be fine, until a drive for the basket in the second half at Cape Girardeau.

After he made a shot, he came down at an unusual angle, trying to avoid a charge. The knee was reinjured and he would be lost to the Miners for the next two conference games.

The Miner lead soon disappeared, and the visitors were down by seven points with only three and a half minutes to play. But Key's group fought back, reclaimed the lead in the final seconds and came away with a 71-69 win.

The Miners lost the next two MIAA games without Fuerman, dropping an 88-73 game at University of Missouri-St. Louis and a 91-66 clash at home against Lincoln.

The team then made the infamous "northern swing" to Northwest Missouri and Northeast Missouri, as Fuerman returned after two weeks of rigorous conditioning.

Although bolstered by his return, the Miners were to play these two big games without the services of Davis and limited duty from Kipp. With Davis on the sidelines most of the time with a bad back and Kipp battling a case of the flu, the Miners lost to Northwest Missouri 63-59 and to Northeast Missouri 76-71.

"I was real proud of the way the team played," Key said. "We really had to play well as a team to stay in these games on the road, and with some of our big people hurt, it was even more of an effort."

The Miners returned home to face Southwest Missouri State in a Jan. 24 contest, and defeated SMS 68-54. Lucas and Kipp led the way with 18 points each.

The Miners shot a fine 57 percent from the field.

Young Lady Miners Coming Along

As the 1980-81 women's basketball season progresses, the Miner freshmen continue to improve.

Although the team posted only a 2-7 record when action resumed in mid-January, the Miner ladies showed signs of greater things to come.

UMR lost to Southeast Missouri 60-57 in a make-up game Jan. 14, as the Miners played for the first time in over a month. Karen Peacock turned in 19 points for the losers, while freshman Gail Halsey added ten points and a game-high ten rebounds.

Two nights later, the Miners fell to Evangel College 63-53, as freshman Laurie Behm scored 18-points and tied for the team lead in rebounds with eight. She followed that performance on Jan. 20 with a 22-point outing in a 69-58 win over Lincoln University. Also grabbing some headlines was freshman center Linda Hill, who scored a career-high 16-points and cleared 11 rebounds.

The win lifted the Miners to 3-9, and coach Annette Caruso had nothing but praise for her young team.

"They are getting a little better each game," she said. "As they cut down on their mistakes, this team will really start to come around. The playing experience that they are getting right now will be very valuable in the future."

After late January battles with Southwest Baptist, Missouri Southern and Evangel College, the Miner women are set for the last part of their schedule which includes six individual contests and the state tournament.

Senior Karen Peacock battles for a loose ball against the SEMO Otahkians.

UMR Professor, Class Study Ozark Folklore

Such hill country expressions as "newfangled," and "outlandish," verb forms such as "gotten" and "boughten," and the common Ozark tendency to pronounce the final "a" in a word as "y" can be traced back to 16th century England.

And the staunch independence of the typical Ozarker who doesn't want to "be beholden" reflects attitudes and values of their Scotch-Irish ancestors of the same era.

Dr. Michael Patrick, who teaches a course in Ozark folklore at the University of Missouri-Rolla, says that such speech forms and intrinsic beliefs link today's hill people with their forebears from the hills of England, Scotland and Ireland.

"The main reason elements of that culture have remained relatively unchanged for 300 years is the isolation of the hill people, an isolation they have chosen and cherished," he says. "When immigrating to this country, they have always chosen to live in areas that reminded them of home—the Appalachian Mountains in the 1700s and the Ozarks in the last century."

Patrick says that the Ozarks are rich in folklore. (His working definition of folklore is "those cultural materials that are transmitted by word of mouth in 'oral tradition' or by customs.") And as a folklorist, Patrick is dedicated to preserving a record of Ozark culture before it dies out and is diluted by change.

In his folklore classes, students learn to recognize and appreciate the folklore that is a part of their heritage, and to start collecting folklore themselves. Armed with notebooks and cassette tape recorders, they visit with older adults in their hometowns and in homes for senior citizens.

It has turned out to be a good experience, both for students and their interviewees, Patrick says.

"College students in their 20s changed their attitudes toward the elderly as they came to know them, and the elderly came to realize that their recollections and values formed a significant contribution in shaping America," he adds.

Professor and students have found Rolla an ideal place from which to study Ozark folklore—a relatively untapped source of information. It is within easy driving distance of a part of Missouri hill country that has been virtually untouched by commercial tourism.

"Tourists who come to this area usually come for activities related to the natural attractions of the Ozarks, such as floating, fishing and hunting," he explains. "Around here you still find real hill people, not the hillbilly stereotype created for movies, TV—and tourists."

Patrick says that wherever he goes in the Ozarks, he learns more about what has become one of his major fields of study. He lectures on Ozark folklore in retirement centers as part of UMR's University of the Third Age, a continuing education program for older adults. "And I always learn more from them than they do from me," he says. In his leisure time, you're likely to find him at auctions and sales, standard Saturday events in the Ozarks, and wherever bluegrass music is being played.

Patrick comes to his interest in Ozark culture naturally. A native of Eldon, near the Lake of the Ozarks in central Missouri, he grew up with tall tales, bluegrass and country music, and characters straight from the Ozark hills. He became a student of folklore later, when he noted that authors of the Victorian period, his major study in literature, drew some of their material from folklore.

"In British literature, Robert Browning and Alfred Tennyson are among those who based some of their poetry on folk tales or songs. In America, Mark Twain and William Faulkner are two examples of those who made extensive use of folklore, especially the tall tale. This is one of the staples of Ozark folklore, as are anecdotes about gullible strangers and stories in which the teller is made the butt of the joke," he explains.

This is all part of the Ozarks that Patrick knows and loves, both as a native Ozarker and a folklorist. As current president of the Ozarks States Folklore Society and past president of the Missouri Folklore Society, he has found that Missourians in general are interested in preserving their heritage.

He welcomes the resurgence of interest in folkways evidenced by the popularity of bluegrass music, handicrafts and interest in the "old ways" that are still a part of Ozark life. But he fears that much of that way of life will pass too soon from the American scene.

"The late Vance Randolph, Ozark folklorist and author, predicted a number of years ago that the Ozark way of life would gradually disappear as better roads were built and people in the backwoods became less isolated. But television is accelerating the process. Almost everyone who has electricity—and almost everyone does—has a TV set. With it comes urban American culture, with its emphasis on the 'benefits' of modern technology, and, of course, what is considered to be standard middle-class English. Much of the dialect is already disappearing. In time, we'll all be homogenized," he says.

And that, UMR's resident folklorist believes, would be a loss.

Students Study Horsepower

Engineering and science students who took UMR's course in horsemanship last fall studied the "original" horsepower.

Tom Renick, senior in civil engineering from St. Charles, was enrolled in the one-hour credit course just for the fun of it. "I figured if I didn't learn how to ride now, I probably never would," he said. "I'm not sure I'll ever make much use of the skill, but it is something worth knowing and I've been having a good time!"

Horsemanship, as taught by Mary Ann Walker of Union, covers the basics—such as how to walk, trot and canter a horse, how to saddle and unsaddle, and take care of and handle the horses. Most of the students in the course are beginners. But, for those with some experience, Walker teaches more advanced techniques.

Kevin McIlvain, sophomore in aerospace engineering from Kansas City, was a more experienced rider. He took the course to learn how to ride Western style, since he had been used to the English saddle and techniques or riding.

Mariana Rodriguez, civil engineering student from Lima, Peru, graduated in December. "I've always wanted to learn how to ride," she said. "I'm going home to Lima soon where I will be working in a consulting firm. We have riding clubs in Lima and I hope to be able to join one."

Mark Wilsey, senior in mechanical engineering from St. Clair, was more serious about the subject. He looked on it as a good use of his time. "This course was a chance for me to get outside on Tuesday afternoons and get some air, exercise, and learn a new skill. I've also learned to overcome a certain apprehension about being around big animals."

UMR's athletic department has been making an effort to provide opportunities for students to learn more about non-team sports and develop personal skills in this type of activity. Horsemanship is conducted both in the classroom and at the Rolla Arena, a facility about five miles north of Rolla where the horses are stabled (it includes an indoor arena) and students may learn the more practical side of the sport.

Horsemanship will be offered again during the spring semester. Because of the probability of inclement weather, it will not begin until March and will be offered on both Tuesday and Thursday afternoons until the end of the semester. Those wishing more information about the course fees, renting horses, stabling their own horses and other details, should contact the UMR athletic department, Bullman Multi-Purpose Building, Rolla, MO 65401 (phone 341-4175).

One student in this fall's course had a vital reason for taking it. Jan Cooper, freshman in computer science from Rolla (1315 Pershing), had always wanted her own horse. "Our family has a farm near Montauk," Jan said, "and my father said I could keep a horse there, but it would be my responsibility entirely. I took horsemanship to not only learn to ride, but to learn something about horses—how to take care of them and what they need."

Winter Commencement

Bob L. Mornin, '48, Delivers Commencement Address

Bob L. Mornin, executive vice president, operations, Adolph Coors Company, and president, Coors Container Company, Golden, Colo., delivered the address at UMR's Winter Commencement Sunday, Dec. 21.

Approximately 500 students received degrees at the ceremonies held in the Bullman Multi-Purpose Building. Mornin was awarded a Doctor of Engineering (Honoris Causa) degree.

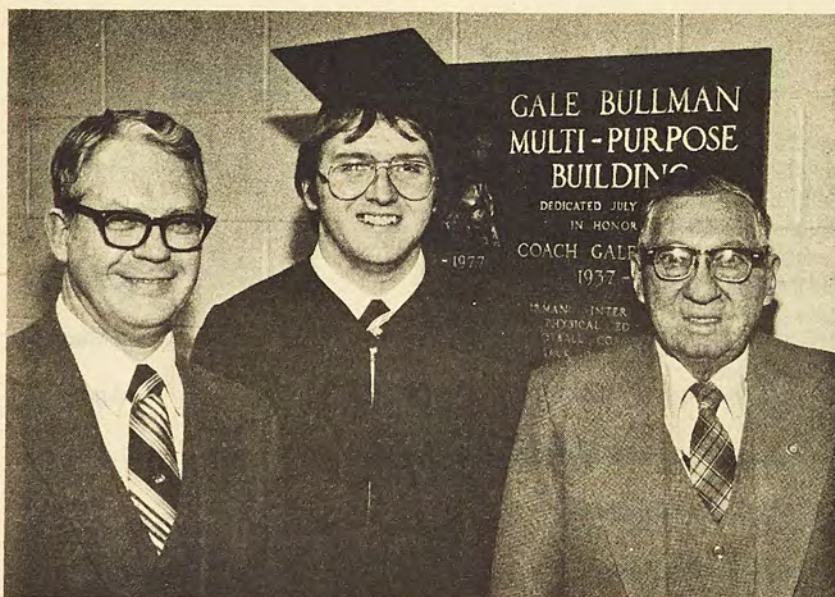

"Because people are the most important resource we have," Mornin told the graduates, "management in our free enterprise system must take a 'humanistic approach' if it is to succeed."

"You must be prepared to take advantage of all that your fellow workers and employees have to offer," he continued. "And to do this you must develop an atmosphere of mutual trust."

Mutual trust, he stressed, can be accomplished only "by your actions—not empty words." You must provide "firm but fair treatment," "keep lines of communication open" and "offer complete employee participation and an opportunity for self-fulfillment."

Mornin received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in ceramic engineering from UMR in 1948 and 1949. He was awarded the professional degree of ceramic engineer by UMR in 1970. The MSM-UMR Alumni Association gave him an Alumni Achievement Award in 1977 and he was made an Honorary Knight of St. Patrick in 1980.

It was all in the family for Richard Isbell (center), December graduate in civil engineering. His father, Clarence (left) holds a bachelor of science degree in metallurgical engineering (class of 1950) and a master of science degree in engineering management (class of 1972) from UMR. His grandfather, Walker E. Case, was awarded the bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from this institution in 1922.

26/MSM Alumnus

Chancellor Joseph M. Marchello, left, and Dr. Ernest M. Spokes, right, acting dean, School of Mines and Metallurgy, are shown with Benjamin Winter, student marshal. Marshals are graduating seniors leading the processional for their school. Selection of the individual marshal was made by the dean on a basis of scholarship, leadership and activities. Winter is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Robert V. Wolf, 1504 Scenic Drive, Rolla. He earned his B.S. degree in metallurgical engineering.

Faculty Activities

Christensen and Ridley

To Write New History Of MSM-UMR

If you're the type of person who'd like to help make history, then Lawrence Christensen and Jack Ridley would like to hear from you.

In order to write the sort of history of UMR that they would like to, the two associate professors of history need your assistance and involvement.

"We want to produce a book that will be both readable and scholarly," said Christensen, "and so we'll include a chronicle of student and campus life as well as a more 'official' account.

"Accordingly," he continued, "oral history will play an important role in our research. We have access to official papers through the University archives and some record of student organizations and the like through sources such as the "Rollamo" and campus newspapers. More often than not, however, these sort of things lack the flavor of personal reminiscences."

"So what we'd like," Ridley said, "would be for alumni, faculty, staff and people from the area around Rolla to share their memories with us. And they can do this by getting in touch with us here at UMR and letting us know what sort of information they have.

"We're interested in all aspects of campus life—athletics, St. Pat's, campus hangouts, you name it—and we'd appreciate having any vignettes or anecdotes that individuals might know related to us," he added. "We'd also like, if possible, to view any papers, photos or artifacts that individuals might have relating to the time they spent on campus."

Both professors stressed that all such material can be returned, but if the individual is willing, the material will be placed in the UMR archives where it will be available for future use by historians.

Of particular interest to them, Christensen said, is learning about the founding of various official and unofficial campus organizations and activities.

"These sorts of things are very important," he added, "and the only way for us to learn about many of them is from the people who were and are involved.

"For example, burning an outhouse in front of the chancellor's residence on Oct. 31 is a tradition. And while it isn't an officially sanctioned activity, it has always played a role in the life of the school. So it would prove valuable for us to be able to talk to people who have taken part in something like this."

At present, plans call for the book to consist of four major sections: "Years of Founding: Laying the Foundation Blocks," 1870-1918; "Years of Stability," 1918-1945; "Years of Growth," 1945-1964; and "Years of Trial and Change," 1964-present. Each of these sections, in turn, will contain four chapters dealing with administration and construction, faculty, curriculum and students.

"The last two histories of the school—Clair V. Mann's 'The History of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy' and Clarence N. Roberts' 'History of the University of Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy'—were published in the 1940s," Ridley said. "A lot of important years have passed since then and it seemed like a good time to catch up with events and produce a modern history."

The two have "only just begun" to work on the project and will be doing research through the summer of 1982. "So far," Ridley said, "we've started to go through some of the official records and have read several histories of other universities. We've found that few of them devote as much space to student and campus life as we intend to (roughly one-fourth of the book).

"Given the nature of our subject," he added, "this only seems appropriate. For, throughout its history, UMR has prided itself on putting its students first; it's been an educational institution in the best sense."

So if you know something about UMR that you think Ridley and Christensen might find helpful, please get in touch with them through the Social Sciences Department, Humanities-Social Sciences, UMR, Rolla, Mo. 65401, phone 314-341-4802 or 314-341-4806. They'll enjoy hearing from you.

Spokes Appointed To Head National Committee

Dr. Ernest M. Spokes, acting dean of the School of Mines and Metallurgy at the University of Missouri-Rolla, has been appointed chairman of the Committee on Underground Coal Mines Safety of the National Research Council's Commission on Sociotechnical Systems.

The National Research Council is the operating arm of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering and is a private, non-profit organization of scientists and engineers dedicated to furthering science and technology and their uses for the general welfare.

The Committee on Underground Mine Safety was formed to try to identify the characteristics that make some mines relatively safe and others relatively unsafe. They will examine options for improving the safety of all underground coal mines, especially those which have had a high accident rate.

The committee will gather its information by means of briefings by mine-safety specialists, visits to coal mines and review of analyses of accident records. Committee members are drawn from the fields of geology, mine engineering, economics, management, labor, medicine, law, psychology, sociology, and statistics.

The committee was formed in response to a recommendation by the President's Commission on Coal in a report issued last spring which found an "unacceptably wide variation in the safety experience among larger underground coal mines," and that fatalities are disproportionately higher in small underground mines.

Aughenbaugh Named Fulbright Scholar

During the next two years, the Nolan B. Aughenbaugh family will experience three winters, three springs, and only one summer and fall.

From July to December of this year, Dr. Aughenbaugh, professor of geological engineering at UMR, will be a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand, in the southern hemisphere where seasons are reversed.

The UMR professor will be accompanied by his wife, Barbara, and two of their children, Lowell, 18, and Amy, 16. The family will live in Dunedin.

Aughenbaugh's assignment at the New Zealand university will be twofold: he will be a visiting lecturer in the department of mineral technology, and he will appraise problems related to the expansion of coal mining in New Zealand, a research project that will take him to many of the coal deposits located throughout the country.

This won't be Aughenbaugh's first trip to New Zealand. As a member of the United States team in the Antarctic during the International Geophysical Year in the late 1950's, he spent some time there, and, he says, "I've always wanted to go back and take my family."

Dunedin, his home base this trip, was his taking-off point for Antarctica. If possible, he hopes to take his son to see the area. They will visit Mount Aughenbaugh, the highest peak in the Dufek Mountains. It was named for him as co-discoverer of the mountain range.

The Aughenbaughs plan to be back in Rolla for the spring semester, 1982.
