ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED BY EXERCISES.

Ex-Service Men Win Competi- tive Drill.

Armistice Day dawned gray sweeping over the campus where the Ex-Service men and the R. O. T. C. formed in line for the parade thru the business section of Rolla. Despite the cold, many townspeople and students turned out to witness the parade and the subsequent competitive drill of the former soldiers and the crack platoon of the R. O. T. C. of the School of Mines.

The lines formed on the campus at 9:30 A. M., Capt. Medding, of the R. O. T. C., commanding. The battalion marched in column of squads south on Main Street to 6th Street, where the column swung into platoon front, proceeding to the campus. On Jackling Field the platoons lined up for the inspection by Dr. Fulton and the Faculty.

Then followed the drill, in which the ex-soldiers competed with the picked R. O. T. C. platoon in ten minutes of close order drill and the Manual of Arms. It was worth the discomfort of the cold weather to watch the former soldiers go thru the different drills. It was like a division review. Lines straight as a string, snappy and clean cut movements showed that the veterans were old hands at the business of handling a rifle and doing "Squads East." The R. O. T. C. platoon put up a very good drill, and showed much improvement in handling themselves, but they could not meet the experience

MO. MINING AND MET. AS. SOC. MEETS TUESDAY EVE., 7:15.

Mining Lecture Room.

The Mo. Mining & Met. Assoc. will hold its first meeting Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the Mining lecture room. This is the first official meeting of the association since its reorganization, and promises to be a real peppy affair. The speakers on the program for the evening are "Chief" Buehler and Director Fulton. Other interesting meetings are being arranged for the year. Everybody is invited, regardless of whether a member or not.

COTTRELL MAGNETIC PRE- CIPITATOR DEMONSTRAT- ED.

On Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8, Mr. Pier, of the Research Corporation, gave a demonstration of the Cottrell Magnetic Precipitator to the miners, metallurgists and chemists of all classes except the Freshmen.

Mr. Pier first told of the original experiments with magnetic precipitators, and how finally Dr. Cottrell made the apparatus a commercial possibility, and founded the Research Corporation, which utilizes the profits from the manufacture of precipitators to carry on research work along scientific lines. He then carefully explained the theory upon which the precipitator works, and showed how this theory was put into actual use. He concluded his lecture with a discussion of the various commercial uses of the precipitator. This part of the lecture was supple-

GLEE CLUB ORGANIZED.

Another new organization has been added to those connected with M. S. M. On Tuesday evening, Oct. 25, the Glee Club was formally organized by adopting its constitution and electing its officers. The officers elected were: Dr. W. D. Turner, Director; Gerald Knight, President; Tom Weir, Vice-President; Prof. C. V. Mann, Faculty Vice-President; L. E. Shire, Secretary; D. L. Moodie, Librarian.

The aims and purposes of this club are not unlike those of similar organizations in other schools. As soon as it is possible the club hopes to lend any assistance that it can in the way of musical entertainment to any school activities. It hopes eventually to give an evening's program of its own.

The club has at present about 25 members, who are all interested in the work of the club, and are therefore energetically working to get the organization on its feet. In addition to the regular vocal department a mandolin club is being organized as an auxiliary. This club will include all stringed instruments.

Room 300, Norwood Hall, is the regular meeting place. A piano has already been secured. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening, and any one who has any talent to display, or who is in any way interested in the club, is cordially invited to attend.

of the ex-soldiers. The judges decided unanimously in favor of the Ex-Service men.

Lt. Col. Peatross, of the 89th Division, who has witnessed several inspections of the local R. O. T. C. unit, announced the winners of the meet. He complimented the R. O. T. C. for their excellent showing against the winners, and remarked at the decided improvement of the unit in the different drills.

The men at the mine celebrated the signing of the armistice by firing a salute of twenty-one sticks of dynamite. At the several business houses in Rolla the people stood at attention for two minutes at eleven o'clock in respect to the soldiers that died in France.

TARVIA LECTURE COURSE APPRECIATED.

The three-day lecture course given by Mr. G. E. Martin, representing the Tarvia People, was much appreciated by the large number attending the lectures. The lectures were interesting and instructive, and were accompanied by moving pictures or slides showing the various stages in the construction of Tarvia pavement.

The lecture Tuesday evening was given over to a description of Tarvia and macadam pavements, accompanied by a two-reel movie showing the various steps.

The two lecture hours on Wednesday were given over to a discussion of maintenance of Broken Stone and Earth Roads, followed Wednesday evening by the actual demonstration of Chemical Tests of Road Tars.

The Thursday lectures had to do with the construction of Block Pavements, and the Preservation of Wood.

MCCUNE'S PROTEGES WIN 25TH ANNUAL CONTEST.

First Miner Victory in Six Years.

Miners Prove to Be Too Much for Their Old-Time Rivals.

Buck Suffers a Broken Ankle.

The Miners proved too great a team for their rivals of twenty-eight years, and succeeded in trouncing them with a 31-0 score. This top-heavy score does not hardly illustrate the ease with which the Miners won. They gained thru the line at will, and in the last quarter were able to practice a few new plays for further use. In the backfield Buck and Hoover proved to be the most persistent yard gainers, with Ledford showing up exceedingly well at quarter. In the line Bolt, Zoller and Zook were the most prominent men, each playing in good form and doing excellent work. Judging from the work done in this game the Miners should be well represented on that mythical all-state eleven. Drury was unable to gain to any advantage thru the line, and resorted to end runs and a few passes. The Miners were consistent with their line gains, and resorted to punting only twice during the entire game. The longest kick of the game was made in the second quarter, when Bolt punted for 55 yards. Drury's average for punting was 34 yards.

Following is the game by quarters:

Bolt kicks to Drury's 20-yard line, with return of 15 yards.

Drury gains 5 yards around left end; thru center for 1 yard. Britton stopped by Gray for 1 yard gain. Britton misses ball when starts to punt, the ball going to Miners on Drury's 35-yard line. Buck to right end 1 yard. Gettler to left guard for 4 yards. Gettler fails to gain on end run, and Bolt kicks place kick from 30-yard line.

Bolt kicks to Drury's 7-yard line. Following a 13-yard return Drury fails to gain, and punts to Miners' 45-yard line. Buck and Ledford each hit line for 5 yards. Ledford and Hoover hit line for first downs. Miners penalized 5 yards for off-side. Miners fail to gain, and Bolt punts 30 yards to Drury. Drury gains 4 yards on end runs, and punts to Miners' 50-yard line. All four Miner backs Gettler, Ledford, Hoover and Buck hit line for two first downs but lose ball on Drury's 10-yard line thru a fumble. Drury punts to own 45-yard line, and Buck and Gettler make first downs, which precedes two line plunges for Hoover, netting 10 yards. Quarter ends with Miners' ball on Drury 12-yard line. Miners 3, Drury 0.

Second Quarter.

Zook recovers a fumble for 6-yard gain. Hoover hits line for downs, and carries ball over on third plunge. Bolt kicks goal.

Bolt punts to Drury's 5-yard

MINERS VS. CENTRAL COLLEGE ON NOVEMBER 18.

The Miner eleven will surely feel the loss of their disabled backfield men when they go up against the strong Central College team next Friday. Central comes here with a fighting reputation, having lost only one game this season, and causing Kirksville their first defeat last week. This places the Miners and Central on the same percentage basis in the Conference, each having won three games and lost one. From all appearances this game will be hard fought, but the Miners should come out ahead, judging from their showing against Drury.

The Conference championship seems almost certain to belong to Missouri Wesleyan, but Friday's game will affect the Miner standing to a large degree.

BUCK OUT FOR REMAINDER OF SEASON.

The victory over Drury last Friday was not without its mishaps. In the last six minutes of play Buck, who had been shifted from half back to tackle splintered a small bone in his left angle while attempting to block a forward pass. This has been a hard luck year for Al. He was unconscious for ten hours after the Missouri Wesleyan game, from a blow which he received on the head while making a vicious tackle, and now he is out of the game for the remainder of the season. Al has been playing a stellar brand of football, and this, combined with the fact that he is capable of playing almost any position on the team, will make his loss keenly felt by the rest of the squad.

VOCATES.

There will be a meeting of the V. F. W. Saturday night at the regular place, 7:30. Everybody be there. Important.

Sure the hunting season opened. The members of the La Abri are complaining about having quail too often for breakfast.

Barry shot two nice large Mallards the other morning, but they drowned before he could reach them.

"Jack" Coakley is working for the Foundation Construction Co., Kansas City, Mo. He says the company has one job alone that will keep them busy for two years.

Prof. Brewer had a longing for the mild temperature that the good old state of Georgia affords, Armistice Day. He made a trip back to his native state, and will bring back his overcoat and heavy woolens.

Prof. Zeuch was commended by the ranking officers present for the Armistice Day exercises in the way he led the ex-service men. He gave an exhibition of snap that was of superior quality. His efforts did much toward the winning of the competitive drill by the ex-service men.

What Prof. was it who said that marriage spoiled many a good love affair? We say with him, too, that love creeps in and spoils many a harmless flirtation.

Instead of "Go to the ant, thou sluggard," it's "Go to the text, thou student." Jevver see the like? Some of the grade sheets look as if the E, S and M had been lost off the Prof.'s typewriter.

Rah, Rah, Rah!—Zion City. Down with safe and sane amusements; mustn't even laugh; cover all with the blanket of gloom. Let us all with one accord raise our voices in praise of the city officials. Veritable angels, they are. We wonder if they read their Sunday papers. Shame on them for all time if they did. Sunday papers should be taboo. Zion City, the second, we hail you—Like Hell we do.

EDITORIAL.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Editor believes that it is the duty of the Miner to foster a closer relationship between the Faculty and the Student Body. It is the intention of the Miner Board to endeavor to extend the scope of the work and power of the Student Council.

The Editor is indebted to the Miner of January 12, 1917, for much of the following article.

To any one remembering the apathy of the student body on some occasions, and their extreme and uncontrollable spirit of pep on others, to any one listening to the discussions of students when gathered together away from the portals of Norwood Hall, or to any one over-hearing the murmurs and grumbles of men between classes, or after mass meetings, it is more than unreasonable optimism, and even bordering on folly, to deny that a spirit of unrest has settled down over M. S. M., and is holding real "pep" in unrelenting talons.

The student body is as a giant, shackled fast by fear of preceddace, lack of information, prejudice of petty politics, distrust of faculty, and selfishness to personal gains. He is bound hand and foot, and furthermore is gagged by the fear of "getting in bad," so that if he knows of a remedy for his own ills, he refrains from its use. He is lying beneath the "Sword of Damocles," which is his longed-for degree and credits, and he is afraid that if he struggles, the frail thread will break and end his earthly troubles. So that, we hear only his groans and murmured protests.

Another giant, powerful in might, gazes at his prostrate form, and watches his pains in silence, but can not hear the murmurs nor discern the plea for aid, as he does not approach nor stoop to listen. He is willing to help, perhaps, but he does not see the prostrate form except as a phenomenon characteristic of a land of life, strife and conquest.

He does not know the man, he has never troubled himself to know him, and he tells himself that he would be glad to be a friend to the unfortunate if he were sure he could trust him, and if the victim really desired his aid.

The second giant is the Faculty, who could be and desires to be the friend of the student, but is hesitating, and apparently does not know how to go about it.

If any one denies that there is a spirit of unrest at M. S. M., let him examine more closely the existing conditions. He will then hear the growls referred to, rather than the spoken thot and free and candid expression.

The Faculty is composed of men who are graduates of many schools, and are products of different educational systems. Each member of the Faculty, therefore, is to a certain extent, unlike the other members in his likes and dislikes, thoughts, opinions and actions.

An attempt will be made to reflect the student's view of the Faculty.

the institution looks to the Faculty for some guidance. He feels that his Professors have gone thru just what he is to experience. And upon the attitude of the Professor to the student depends whether the student will thrive or perish. At the present time it would appear that many of the Professors regard the student as an object upon which to unload their theories. It is only reasonable to expect such methods at large universities, but at a college with the enrollment we have there is no reason why the Professors should not know the student, and be interested in him. And as the student's life does not cease when he leaves school each evening, why should the Professor "get back into his shell" as the period ends?

The Faculty has recently instituted the office of Student Advisor. To the credit of the present occupant it must be said that he is a booster, is interested in student activities, and has become acquainted personally with the students. It is folly to suppose that the student will regard the personal interest of this party as indicative of the feeling of the Faculty toward him.

The Faculty has begun to show an indifferent spirit towards school activities. At Mass Meetings few Professors are present; football games do not draw 100 per cent; last year, publication of attendance in the Miner was necessary to secure the presence of Faculty members at basketball games and at other gatherings of students, the Faculty is always in a hopeless minority.

Coming down to actualities, the student feels that some of the Faculty hold themselves on an higher plane. Certain members are prone to disregard or slight student greetings when down town or on the campus. This is a wonderful way to breed distrust and disrespect.

Recently a prominent member of the Faculty was desirous of conferring with a certain student who is a real leader in scholastic and student activities. Upon inquiring for the student this Faculty member miscalled the name of the student three times before getting it correctly. Shows interest, does it not? In a case like this it is advised that the Faculty member could use the current copy of the Rollamo to good advantage.

Finally, the Faculty can get good results by really knowing the attitude of the student on current matters. Before programs are arranged, the success of which depends on the students, it would be wise to look at the proposition from the standpoint of the student.

In the November number of the Atlantic Monthly Prof. W. C. Abbott, of Harvard University has an ultra-modern article, "The Guild of Students." We do not indorse all his opinions, but many are worthy of consideration. "Take up the college 'annual' under whatever title it appears. There you will find no mere announcement of intellectual interests, but a fascinating tale of college life." "There is the heart and mind of the under-graduate laid bare."

Rules and regulations are failures. It's co-operation that brings success. The students need aid, not legislation. Let's try to get acquainted.

mented by slides. Then by means of a laboratory size outfit, Mr. Pier showed that the precipitator would really do some of the things he told about, and showed in pictures.

Any one who missed the lecture missed something worth while, for the magnetic precipitator is the latest word in science when it comes to removing suspended particles from a gas. Because of the precipitator we can have smokeless and sootless cities, the objectionable dust from cement plants can be prevented from coating every house in the town; valuable products from a score of industries that would otherwise pass into the air and be lost can be recovered at a profit. In some cases silver from cupellation hearths is recovered from the flue gases to the extent of $40,000 per year.

NEW TIME SET FOR COURSE AS C. C. TEAM QUALIFIES.

Finishing in the order named, the following men qualified for the dual, five-mile X-country run with Central College next Friday, Nov. 18, over the M. S. M. course:

1. Hazelwood, 28:58.
2. Chomeau, 29:12.
3. Hubbard, 29:17.
4. Nawn, 30:24.
5. Martin, 20:25.
6. Rueh 32 (approx.)

Hazelwood finished strongly with a decisive lead over Chomeau, and cut seventeen seconds from the record for the course, his best previous time being 29 minutes and 15 seconds. Although but six men competed in the trial run held to pick a team of seven, the times recorded represent an unusually well-balanced team since the first five (scoring members) were all on the track during the single lap at the finish.

In cross-country runs, scoring is effected by summing the numbers of positions in which the first five men on each team of seven finish; low score to win, as in golf (Scotch, not African). Thus, while not directly affecting their own team's score, the two extra or emergency men, may add to their opponents' score by beating out scoring members of the rival team. At this juncture it would be well for the frosh to note that even a chaser sometimes has a knick.

Owing to the default of two letter men of last year's track team who were needed to complete the necessary seven runners, H. L. Leonard has volunteered to run under the heavy handicap imposed by lack of any practice or training. "Shucks" will have only time enough off from his varied and hectic activities to roll over the course once in his high-powered Chinese Lancia.
