Festivities Celebrate UMR's First Century

There will be a new twist in entertainment at the dual concert Saturday evening at the Multipurpose Building. The two big bands The Happenings and the Rotary Connection, will set up at opposite ends of the gymnasium and when the opening band concludes their concert, the spotlights will shift to the other end of the gym and the other group will begin. This will provide for continuous entertainment and will delete any unnecessary delays due to changing the stage. The concert will start at 6:30.

In the tradition of a true "Rock Concert", couples may bring blankets and position themselves on the floor. Then, when the entertainment switches ends of the gym, couples need only turn around on their blankets to view the show.

Tickets for the concert are $2.00 per ticket with a student I.D. and are limited to two per card. Tickets will be sold in the Student Union this afternoon and at the door. General admission without an I.D. is $3.00.

Dress is casual for the affair and as usual, no smoking will be permitted in the Multipurpose Building. Since the concert is being held on University property, no intoxicating beverages will be allowed on the premises.

Proceeds from the concert will go into the Student Council General Lectures fund.

Centennial Games Highlight Friday Evening's Celebration

CENTENNIAL INNER-TUBE RACE

Players: 1 Couple from each Organization

The couple shall be holding on to the inner-tube. At the "go" signal from the Judge, they shall enter the water and swim across the pond to the marked finish line. The first couple across the pond and standing on the opposite shore, holding their inner-tube shall be the winner. Although unnecessary roughness will disqualify a couple, ducking, splashing, etc. may be used in crossing the pond. Both the guy and the girl must be holding on to the inner-tube at all times during the race. All contestants must be wearing tennis shoes in the pond.

Missouri Industries Relate To Students Next Tuesday

A total of 60 industries will have displays for you to see at the Third Annual Missouri Industry Day Tuesday (Sept. 22) at the University of Missouri-Rolla. Industry Day will go on from noon until 8 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Building, 10th St. and Bishop. Everyone is invited free of charge.

Industries will have displays on their company products and services and will have representatives on hand to answer your questions about company activities. Brochures will be available to you which will explain company operations. It's a good opportunity to see what industry is doing in Missouri and to see about career opportunities in industry.

To make it easier for you to get where you're going, UMR shuttle buses will run from the Student Union to the Multi-Purpose Building and back on the half hour from noon until 5 p.m. Again, no charge to you.

Missouri Industry Day is held annually by UMR to allow industries, students and area residents to get together.

To have displays at Missouri Industry Day will be:

Aeronautical Chart and Information Center, Alton Box Board Company, American Can Company, Armco Steel Corporation, Black & Veatch, Caterpillar Tractor Company, City of St. Louis Department of Personnel, Clark National Forest Service, Continental Telephone Service Corporation, Cook Paint and Varnish Company, Farmland Industries, Inc., Fruin-Colnon Corporation, General Cable Corporation, General Electric Company, Granite City Steel Company, Great Lakes Carbon Corporation, A.P. Green Refractories.

The Edwin F. Guth Company, Hallmark Cards Inc., Horner & Shifrin Consulting Engineers, Kellwood Company, Litton Precision Products Inc., McDonnell Douglas Corporation, Mississippi Valley Structural Steel Company, Missouri Geological Survey, Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, Missouri Portland Cement Company.

Missouri Public Service Company, Missouri Society of Professional Engineers, Missouri State Highway Department, Monsanto Company, Moog Industries Inc., Nooter Corporation, Noranda Aluminum, Inc., Old Ben Coal Corporation, Olin Corporation, Ozark Lead Company.

Pfizer Inc., Pilot Knob Pellet Company, The Pittsburg & Midway Coal Mining Company, PPG Industries Inc., Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company, Ralston Purina Company, Rawlings Sporting Goods Company, St. Joe Minerals Corporation, St. Louis District Corps of Engineers, St. Louis Metropolitan Sewer District, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company.

Dear Hortense

Dear Hortense,

A long time ago you printed the Ten Commandments for a Party Weekend. Would you please print them again for those of us who have lost them and for the new freshmen?

Column Lover

Dear Lover,

Glad to. Here they are again:
THE 10 COMMANDMENTS
FOR A PARTY WEEKEND

1. Thou shalt invite only nice women.
2. Thou shalt rent only the most expensive double or triple room.
3. Thou shalt prepare thy best sweatshirt and cutoffs and remove half the adjectives in thy vocabulary.
4. Thou shalt lay in a supply of food and refreshments to slake both hunger and thirst.
5. Thou shalt tip freely for all greasy pizzas and pink hamburgers.

Centennial Games Start Off Weekend

Kicking off the Centennial Weekend activities today is the all school outing at Lion's Club Park. The BYOR&F, which means bring your own refreshments and food, affair begins at two o'clock and is scheduled to continue until four. A concession stand operated by Lambda Sigma sorority will be on hand for those who forget to BYOR&F. Broadcasting live throughout the afternoon will be KMSM, the student owned and operated station of UMR.

Promptly at four the centennial games will commence. Competition will be hot and heavy in such strenuous events as the inner-tube race across Rolla Memorial Lake, the standing broad smile, and the 100 ounce chug of liquid refreshment. The highlight of the afternoon will be the world series

7. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's date.

8. Thou shalt not complain when thy date leaves the dance with thy neighbor.

10. Thou shalt lie on Monday by telling thy friends that your date was a pig and that you dumped her.

Dear Hortense,

A long time ago when you printed your Ten Commandments for a party weekend, you left out commandments no. 6 and no. 9. Why was that?

Just Wondering

Dear Just,

I try to keep my column clean.

Confidential to Sickie Rickie in Rolla, Mo.:

Don't worry about it. Just go to your infirmary and tell them what you told me. A little penicillin will clear it right up. P.S. I might suggest you reread the second letter.

Have you got a wild hair to write a letter to Hortense? Well get it off your chest by mailing your problem to:

Dear Hortense
c/o Missouri Miner
UMR
Rolla, Mo. 65401

Be sure to ask for my new book, "Happiness Is a Warm Arm-pit", available soon at the Student Union candy counter.

Judges Prepare To Interview Centennial Candidates

To be objective in choosing a winner among dozens of candidates seeking the prize of the century is not an easy task. However, an even more difficult task is starting Saturday of Centennial Party Weekend at 7:30 a.m. Ugh!

The groups taking on this double-duty are several of the faculty wives, who will judge Father Time; and the UMR Student Council, who will judge the Centennial Queen.

Actually, breakfast will begin at 7:30 a.m. the actual interviews won't commence until 8:00. The interviews will be conducted in a tried and true method, beginning with the informal interviews, then later the formal interviews and finally the judging. To further enlighten the readers of this special Centennial issue, a brief explanation of these stages will follow.

The informal interviews are merely a face-to-face interview between each judge and candidate. Several tables will be arranged with two judges and two candidates per table. After four minutes, upon a signal from the timekeeper, the candidates will move on to another table. This process will continue until all the candidates have met all the judges.

The formal interviews will consist of having the candidates, one at a time, come before the entire group of judges. For four minutes the candidate will entertain questions from the judges. This allows the judges to weigh the candidate's poise and wit.

The voting will wrap up the session. Each judge will have eleven finalists to choose. The winner will be the candidate who showed up on the finalists' list most often, and the ten runners-up will follow in similar order.

Again the genius of the engineer has proved itself.

STANDING BROAD SMILE

STANDING BROAD SMILE

Players: 2 members from each Organization

Although it is one of the lesser known Track & Field events, the standing broad smile has been chosen for UMR's Centennial games. Contestants shall stand together side by side and smile broadly throughout the entire contest. The judges will be using the appropriate engineering instruments to find out which players have the greatest width according to the following formula:

W equals CG plus CD where Wequals Winner
CG equals contestant-Guy
CD equals contestant-Guy's Date (or if organization is hard up, guy in Drag)
Q.E.D.

The team that has the maximal W wins!

I BETTER WIN OR ELSE.....!

MUSTACHE & BEARD CONTEST

MUSTACHE CONTEST - Open to All (No discrimination due to sex)

A team of 3 superbly capable judges, namely the first three finishers in the Centennial Chug

Contest, will examine the entrants' beards or mustaches according to originality, thickness, length, color, shape, texture, grubbiness factor, etc. Only facial hair will be judged! The most outstanding specimen will be awarded first prize.

RAT RACE

RAT RACE

Players: 4 members from each Organization

This is a game of endurance and stupidity that is only exceeded by the "Rat Race" called finals. This is a relay contest. The first player from each team starts at a signal from the Judges and runs to the designated spot. There they put their hands on top of an upright ball bat and have their head touching their hands. Without lifting the bat from the ground, they circle it 8 times. After 8 complete revolutions, they run back and tag their next player. The team to finish first wins. Heats may be run as necessary

NOTICE!!

Letters to "Dear Hortense" may be brought to the Miner office T-14 or to the Miner mail box in the old Kappa Sigma House.

WHEELBARROW RACE

Players: 4 guys from each Organization

As the players line up in single file behind the starting line and the Judge gives the "go" signal, one member of each team will be the wheelbarrow and the other member the pusher. The pusher will grab his partner's ankles and steer him to the opposite side of the field. When they reach the other side, the players must switch positions and return to the original starting line. Then the second team in the relay will do the same.

WHADDA MEAN?
I KINT ENTER?!?

WHEELBARROW RACE

CENTENNIAL CHUG

CENTENNIAL CHUG - 100 oz. of BEER

Players: 1 representative from each Organization

A true test of the Miner TRADITION! At the signal from the starter, players will begin and attempt to chug 100 oz. of beer as quickly as possible. The beer shall be drunk directly from its original container (cans or bottles). The first Miner finished (without barfing) shall be the winner.

CENTENNIAL INDIAN GAME

Playners: 1 player from each Organization

It shall be the purpose of this contest to determine the century's most outstanding Indian player. The winner shall be chosen in the following manner: The judges shall divide the contestants into an appropriate number of groups. After sides have been chosen, rules decided upon, and at least one social drink imbibed, the contest shall begin and last for a maximum of 30 minutes. The person from each group with the least number of mistakes shall be in the final 15 minute run-off. At the end of that time, the Judges shall choose the Champion Indian Player of the World (and Rolla).

IN THE GAME? NO-
I JUST CAME FOR THE FIREWATER!!

CENTENNIAL INDIAN GAME

HOW MUCH FARTHER
DO I HAVE TO CARRY
THIS CANDLE?!?

Candle Relay

CANDLE RELAY

Players: 3 people from each Organization

This is a relay contest in which each team tries to carry a lighted candle to a designated spot and back. Although it is not necessary that the contestants be "lit", the candle must be burning while the player is moving. If it goes out, the player must re-light the candle before continuing.

Harmon Highlights

Nineteen of last year's top twenty college football teams see action this Saturday with only Ohio State marking time until next week. And until they're knocked off their lofty perches, they have to remain the twenty most respected teams in the country.

National champion Texas, with designs on a repeat performance in 1970, meets California in Austin. The Longhorns should separate the men from the Bears. Texas is favored by 29 points.

Third-ranked Louisiana State, overlooked - ignored - bypassed - call it what you will by all bowl selection committees last November, clashes with Texas A & M. The spread: 27 points; the winner: L.S.U.

A bowl-loser that wasn't supposed to be a bowl-loser was 5th-ranked Auburn. The Tigers should muss up Southern Mississippi by about 42 points. Another Harmon bowl-loser was Michigan, rated 6th in 1969. The Wolverines, pre-season favorite along with Ohio State for the Big Ten title, play Arizona in Ann Arbor. Michigan will win by 29.

Unless Northwestern has made fantastic strides since the end of the 1969 season, the Wildcats are in for a long afternoon against 7th-rated Notre Dame. The Irish are top-heavy favorites by 36 points.

And then there's that team about which we received the most correspondence this past winter - undefeated Penn State. The Nittanies finished 9th ("who let you out of your cage!") in our final rankings, and will rack up victory number 31 against Navy this Saturday. The Middies will be bombed by about 40 points. Our thanks to all you wintry writers about P-State. Our only alibi: We admit to being wrong 25 per cent of the time!

One of the top games of the day could be the meeting in Memphis between Mississippi and Memphis State. The Rebels, favored to win the Southeast Conference this year, were rated 10th in '69 - the Tigers were 21st. Mississippi will nip State by just 9 points. Returning to the football wars this week will be last year's 11th-rated team, Tennessee. The Vols take on S.M.U., and are favored to rattle the Mustangs by 17 points.

Houston, Purdue, and Georgia, 17th, 18th, and 19th respectively in last year's final ratings, open their '70 seasons Saturday. Houston will bump the Orangemen of Syracuse by 22 points. Purdue will win over T.C.U. by 15. and Georgia should wrap up a 13 point opening win over Tulane.

"Big Iron Wheel" Returns

The "Big Iron Wheel" has long been a symbol of pride and heritage for the students of UMR. It has appealed to all Miners since its first day of existence. Its range of popularity is exemplified by the fact that it is the official symbol of the governing body of the students while also being the theme of our unofficial school song.

The greatest material replica of this enduring symbol existed for quite some time upon the Old Jackling Gymnasium. When Jackling Gym was torn down, the Big Iron Wheel was broken, but not beyond repair. The construction of Jackling Gym's replacement, the Multipurpose Building, has set the stage for the real bridging of the old and the new - our first century of service with our second.

The dedication of this symbol of our past will take place fittingly, on the celebration of our first hundred years. Actual placement of the "Big Iron Wheel" in front of the Multipurpose Building will take place later this semester since materials for its permanent placement are not yet available. At 1:15 p.m. on the Saturday of Centennial party weekend, Chancellor Mer Baker will officially dedicate the Big Iron Wheel, a part of our proud history, to stand in front of our new athletic structure with hopes for an even greater future.

Student Council President Chuck LaJeunesse will serve as Master of Ceremonies of the event. The ceremony will be concise and without pomp. Its goal is to generate pride for our past and enthusiasm for our future, not to burden everyone with lengthy speeches.

With the dedication occurring at 1:15 and the Multipurpose Building being just a few hundred yards from the field, it is hoped that Miners both old and new will be stirred to attend this very significant event.
