Ratchford Appointed Interim President Weaver Resigns University Post

Dr. C. Brice Ratchford has been appointed interim president of the University of Missouri and will assume the responsibilities of the office at noon today, it was announced by Pleasant R. Smith, president of the University Board of Curators.

He replaces Dr. John C. Weaver, who has accepted the Presidency of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Weaver will remain as a consultant to President Ratchford during the transition period.

Dr. Ratchford, in accepting the appointment, said, "It has been my privilege to serve with two outstanding presidents at the University of Missouri. It would be difficult for anyone to surpass their accomplishments. I hope that the process for selecting a qualified person as the next president will move ahead as rapidly as possible. In the meantime I will do my best to provide leadership and guidance to the activities of this fine University."

Board President Smith in announcing the Board's desire to start the process for the selection of a president stated, "The selection of the president of a major university is of utmost importance and must be approached in a most objective manner. It is the intention of the Board to establish some vehicle for full communication with the faculty on this matter. We want suggestions from the faculty, administration, alumni, and any other group or individual.

We also will need assistance in the very time consuming and complex task of screening the many potential candidates. Since the securing of adequate communication and advice expeditiously for a position so important to the University of Missouri is difficult, the Board wants to give considerable thought to the form of the vehicle that will be used."

With the acceptance of Dr. Weaver's resignation, the Board passed a resolution expressing appreciation for his services to the University, their reluctance in accepting the resignation and their best wishes for his success and happiness in his native State of Wisconsin as President of the University of Wisconsin.

Centennial Free "University"?

What is it? Don't let the word "University" scare you away! Actually, Centennial Free University is not at all like the present concept you probably have of a university. It is not a series of courses that you must complete in order to obtain a degree in some field, nor is it the myriad of homework, tests, and other frustrating obstacles associated with these courses. Instead of this type of "brain-straining" course work, Centennial Free "University" is, very simply, an opportunity for you to learn something about a subject of your own choice - ANY TOPIC - be it sex, the draft, photography, glass blowing, wine-making, religions, contraceptives, Women's liberation, abortion, or whatever. . . . all at NO COST.

You say you want to learn how to make boisenberry wine to use as a "pepper-upper" during your study breaks on those long, hard nights before quizzes? Well, just make your desire known to the Centennial Free University Committee, either by telling your student council representative or by filling out a "Proposed Discussion Topic" form at the Student Union and placing it in the Centennial Free University box in the Student Union foyer. If enough interest is shown in boisenberry wine-making, the greatest effort will be put forth to locate a knowledgeable bootlegger, maybe one of our campus department heads, to talk on the subject.

Centennial Free University "classes" will be held either during the last part of semester break, probably during registration, or during the very first week of second semester, when the homework load is "negligible." If held during semester break, a few pre-class "social gatherings" might be arranged to insure good "class participation." Please make your preference between these two time periods known when filling out your "boisenberry wine-making" form at the Student Union.

This is your chance to learn something about a topic that has always interested you - a topic which you've never had time to research yourself, and one which is never available in

"The Roots Of Dissent"

By Charles Lindy

On Thursday, October 29, the Student Union Fine Arts Committee presented Nat Hentoff who spoke to those interested persons that came to the Student Union Ballroom at 8:00 p.m. Nat Hentoff has written articles for such publications as The New Yorker, The New York Times, and Playboy (where he interviewed Joan Biaz.) He has also written books like "The New Equality" and "Peace Agitator." Mr. Hentoff is presently teaching at New York University.

As Nat Hentoff stated many times during his speech, there was one person who influenced the shape of his life. This person was A. J. Muste. Mr. Hentoff said that he adopted this man's philosophy about the war in Vietnam (He does not accept a belief that a few people dragged us into the war, our whole way of life dragged us into it.) Nat Hentoff inferred also that he agreed with the statement made by a Harvard student at April's "Environmental Teach-In", "(the Vietnam war) . . . is a natural outgrowth of the system. . . of a system that doesn't care about people, only profits."

Mr. Hentoff made various comments on the expenditure of money by the U.S. Government and the Nixon administration. The present Nixon budget spends 53 cents per $1.00 on the military and 4 cents goes to air and water pollution. "The Pentagon Watcher," written by graduate students of seven different universities, tells of a testimony of a general saying that there is a need for money for weapons development after a nuclear war!

Mr. Hentoff said that the U. S. Government spent $125 on the war in Southeast Asia to every 90 cents in cancer research, which would ai America's people.

The speaker then referred to a term he liked to use when speaking of the delimna of our country; "Auto Anesthesia." This "Auto Anesthesia" is when the people turn their eyes away from acts of cruelty. It is not that they do not realize these things are going on, it's that they see these things only in photos and TV, hear of them in speeches and in newscasts, but they just turn their backs and do nothing to correct these wrongs. An example he gave of this type

Von Ryan's Express

Movie Times 4:00 & 6:30

Air Force Colonel Ryan is interned in an Italian POW camp joining a handful of GI's and the remnants of a British regiment under a fiery major. When, as senior officer, he is expected to lead the current escape attempt but instead makes an uneasy peace with the Nazis to get supplies for sick starving men, he is nicknamed Von Ryan. When Italy surrenders to the Allies, Ryan directs a pulse-pounding plan to get the men to the Swiss border, taking over the train into which the Nazis had herded the prisoners. Fast-paced action story.

The November movie schedule started with a band as "Blow-up" played in the Student Union Ballroom. Other movies showing this month are: "Bon Ryans Express, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, The Dirty Dozen." Show times are 4:00 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Monday was the start of entries for the Student Union Hearts Tournament. Play starts next Monday, November 9. Grab a partner and sign up in the lobby of the Student Union right now.

The billiards tournament ended with Dick White as the winner. Second was won by Tom Hayden. Look to this column for the names of tournament winners.

Nat Hentoff spoke to a near capacity audience in his dialogue on the Roots of Dissent last Thursday. Although audience participation was good, it could have been better.

Two important meetings are on the agenda of UMR'S Student Union Board this month. Tomorrow, November 5, is the Composite Board Meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the M.E. auditorium. This meeting is open to all students, and attendance by all committee members is asked. Since the Student Union Board handles almost $34,000 of students money annually, this is a very good chance for the students to see who and what the Board is.

Also scheduled this month is the American College Union Conference at Warrensburg, Missouri. The board will travel to the conference for meetings on November 12 through 14. More will be said next week concerning the conference.

Also scheduled for November is Earthlight. Earthlight is a theatre troupe from California whose performance is in collection of short pieces and skits, similar to the Committee. Previous appearances include the Woodstock Festival.

U. S. Policy In Mideast; What Do You Think?

By Greg Schmittgens

This week, in the first of what will be a continuing series of pollings of students on current relevant topics, the question was asked of several students: What is your opinion of the administration's policy in the Middle East? Here are some of their replies:

P.T.: The United States should try to remain neutral because Viet Nam is a big enough problem as it is. But as a major world power we should try to arbitrate a permanent peace. Since the Russians are supplying the Arabs with arms, I think it is just for us to sell jets, or any other material to them (the Jews), to maintain a balance of power. This is a form of escalation, true, but, as in Viet Nam, it is right to save a free people from oppression.

D.S.: The Middle East represents another fighting front for the United States. Our enemies are surrounding us; where can we go? The enemies will close in on us if we involve ourselves in the Middle East. Viet Nam, the Middle East, and who can tell? Maybe then the United States.

G.S.: I feel that we should stay out of the war in the Middle East, because between that and Viet Nam, we are spreading ourselves too thin. Ours is the greatest country on earth, both socially, economically, and aesthetically. I don't think we should do anything to endanger or strain our position of influence in the world today. We may need it to really save the world another day.

J.M.: I think we should at least make a show of military might in the Middle East, because we cannot let them push us around. I think the prime example of this is the hijacking and destruction of airliners. I think that this is definitely wrong and should be both punished and halted. However, I don't think we should make another Viet Nam. That would be a total mistake.

S.W.: I think all wars are wrong, and as such should be stopped. I think the United States should make a diplomatic effort to keep the peace in the Middle East. However, no attempt at physically restraining should be used. This would only lead to another Viet Nam, draining this country and and leaving it dissatisfied.

These, then, are some of the opinions of UMR students on the topic of the Middle East. However, it is interesting to note that a large portion of those asked replied that they had no opinion that they had not followed the situation closely enough.

Next week, the poll will concern the changing of the curriculum and the grading system and what students have to say about that subject.

Miner of the Week

Farewell Speech

President Weaver Says Good Bye To Mo.

I have today accepted election by the Wisconsin Board of Regents as the fifteenth president of the University of Wisconsin.

It is difficult, indeed, for me to contemplate leaving the University of Missouri family, and my many friends throughout this state. I came to this institution four and one half years ago with every sincere intention of pursuing the remainder of my academic career here.

I can say with honesty that I had never considered it a serious possibility that I might move from my present position to a major administrative post in another University. I have, however, found the wholly unanticipated invitation to go home to alma mater completely compelling. My parents, and their parents before them, lived their lives in Wisconsin. Until my twenty-fifth year I knew Madison as home. One could say that first and foremost I have known Wisconsin by heart. My heart tells me to return.

There are many things about the University of Missouri in which I have joined this state in taking pride. It has all of the potential to place it on the threshold of greatness. Its faculty and its students have maintained a steady course in difficult days. It deserves, and I believe is, backed by the loyalty and understanding of its state. It has pioneered in a new form of university governance with its multiple-campus system. I regret that I will not be a part of the promising future that I know lies ahead for this institution.

If I might be permitted a personal word at this moment when I am moved by understandably poignant and mixed emotions, I would wish to give expression, both for my wife, Ruberta, and for me, to our deep sense of gratitude for the warmly loyal support we have enjoyed these past months and years among Curators, administrative officers, faculty colleagues, students, alumni and fellow citizens alike.

A century and a quarter ago, the first President of the University of Missouri, John Hiram Lathrop, moved to Madison to become the first President of the University of Wisconsin. In following the trail he blazed northward, the Weavers, like Lathrop, carry with them an enduring affection for this place. Though moving with humility but enthusiasm to our new challenge and adventure, we shall deeply miss "fair Missouri".

The Magic Suitcase Lady To UMR

On October 28, the AICHE held its regular meeting. After preliminary reports the special guest speaker made her presentation. Miss Candy Minks, known as the magic suitcase lady, spoke on the wide ranging uses of natural gas. She was a representative of the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America. The uses of natural gas vary from the widely used dynal wigs, nylon astro turf, and the new synthetic dyes to experimental uses of clear transparent latex. The exhibit was of special interest to Chemical and Petroleum Engineers and proved to be very enlightening.

Pollution Fight Comes To Rolla

At 1:30 p.m. on Friday, November 6, the Missouri Water Pollution Board will hold a public hearing at the Community Hall in Rolla. The purpose of the hearing is to receive arguments both for and against strengthening the water quality protection standards for Little Piney Creek, Mill Creek, Spring Creek, Beaver Creek, and Little Beaver Creek, all of which are in Phelps County southwest of Rolla.

Rodney F. Young, Supervisor of the Clark National Forest, explained the reasons for the hearing: "Several months ago, Dave Wright - a UMR student and member of CURE - brought to our attention the fact that Little Piney Creek could be rendered completely unfit for people to swim in and yet still meet the requirements of the state water quality protection standards. Because of the heavy swimming use at our Lane Spring and Mill Creek Recreation Areas, we began studying the standards very closely and found that he was right. Furthermore, we also found several other weaknesses in the standards."

Yount pointed out the following inadequacies in the present water quality protection standards:

1. Little Piney Creek is heavily used for swimming and wading at many locations - Lane Spring, the bridge west of Vida, the bridge on the Old Newburg Road, the community swimming hole at Newburg, and the bridge near the mouth of Mill Creek. On one hot August Sunday afternoon, a Clark National Forest employee counted over 250 people swimming and playing in the Little Piney. Yet the present water quality protection standards specifically exclude swimming as one of the uses of the stream and, as a result, there is no standard whatever about the maximum level of bacterial contamination that would be permitted. Mill Creek, Spring Creek, Beaver Creek, and Little Beaver Creek have only slightly better protection. In them, the maximum bacterial contamination level that would be permitted is 10 times the amount safe for swimming.

2. Rainbow trout inhabit nearly the entire length of Little Piney Creek and many Miners and other local fishermen put in a lot of hours trying to catch them. Yet the present water quality standards protect the trout fishing for only a four mile stretch from the mouth of Yancey Mills Spring down to the bridge west of Vida. Even at the Lane Spring trout management area, only a part of the Little Piney is protected.

3. The present water quality protection standards exclude the use of Little Beaver Creek for the disposal of sewage effluent, yet Rolla's new sewage treatment plant discharges its effluent into that creek. Fecal bacteria numbers average six times higher below the plant than above it and phosphate levels average 25 times greater below the plant than above it. It's too late to move the plant, but its existence there should at least be recognized in the water quality protection standards.

Young also explained how the public hearing will be conducted. "The Water Pollution Board's main interest is in finding out how heavily these streams are used for various purposes. For instance, if enough people testify that the Little Piney and Mill Creek are used for swimming and wading, the Pollution Board will then set standards strong enough to keep the water safe for swimming. You don't have to know anything about water chemistry or law to make a worthwhile contribution at this hearing. On the other hand, if you leave it up to the other guy to speak for you, it's pretty likely that he won't show up either."

Persons can testify at the hearing in either of two ways. The most effective is to read a written statement which is then given to the Pollution Board representative for inclusion in his records. The other is to make only an oral statement which will be recorded by the Board. Persons unable to attend the hearing in person can express their views in a letter sent to the Missouri Water Pollution Board, P.O. Box 154, Jefferson City, 65101.

MID GRADES???

The issuing of midsemester grades is one of the antiquated policies, along with the six week drop rules and dropping a student from a course because of unexcused absences, that still exist at UMR. Midsemester grade reports serve no real purpose. They don't take a person off or place him on scholastic probation, effect a students standing in relation to financial aide, placed on any permanent record, figured into the overall grade point, or remove a student from any elected or appointed office on campus.

In an age of when economy is king the Registrars office must pay for the use of the computer to print four copies of the midsemester grades. One copy is for the student, another sent to the students major department, one placed on file at the registrars office for approximately six months, and the last copy mailed to the students parents. The processing and mailing of a copy of the grade report to the students parents isn't free by any means, neither is the distributing of a copy to the students. If a student has to pay to drop or add a course because of the required "paper work," then why doesn't the school "sell" copies of mid grades.

How accurate is the midsemester grade report? On campus you will find instructors giving blanket grades at mid, only one test before mid and two or three afterwards, giving grades according to a students year in school, having one grading scale for mid and another for the remainder of the term, or giving a student any grade he asks for at mid. This doesn't show how a student actually stands in relation to his classmates at midsemester.

It is recommended, however, that instructors continue to post accurate mid term grades so that a student who is interested has an opportunity to find his grades and the printing and distribution of mid semester grades be stopped because it serves no purpose and is a waste of the ever increasing student fees.

OUR MAN HOPPE

Out Damned Political Spots!

As election day approaches, millions of voters are still undecided as to whom they want to represent them in the hallowed halls of Congress during the trying years ahead.

Typical, perhaps, are Mr. and Mrs. Darlington Phribbs of East Cheeseport. In a worthy effort to be well-informed on the candidates, they have remained glued before their television set for six hours nightly since Labor Day.

At this point, however, Mrs. Phribbs simply cannot make up her mind who would make the best United States Senator: Democrat Hiram Cogwell, Mr. Shine Floor Wax, or General Dirty-Away, the all-purpose household cleanser.

Mr. Phribbs, on the other hand, is torn between Republican Caspar Hanrahan, The Little Old Beermaker, and the doctor who explains how Feeney's Mints relieve acid indigestion in a glass stomach.

"For a Democrat, you really have to admire Hiram Cogwell," said Mrs. Phribbs thoughtfully, as they watched the candidate's 30-second commercial on the Late Show for the 43d time. "Look at the way he walks down that beach in his shirtsleeves. He's so sincere."

"Now, dear, don't fall for the old walking-down-the-beach bit," said Mr. Phribbs. "Democrats have been doing that for years. And they keep getting us into wars. I much prefer the way Hanrahan rides that white horse along a country lane. It says a lot about the man."

"Can't he afford a car?" said Mrs. Phribbs with a sniff. "It suggests the way these Republicans keep getting us into depressions. Anyway, he takes 60 seconds to get his message across. I think he's a windbag."

"Maybe you're right, dear," said Mr. Phribbs. "I think I may go for The Little Old Beermaker. He seems to have a zest for life and a love of mankind."

"But all he promises are better hops. Better hops aren't going to cure inflation."

"Well, it's more than Cogwell promises. And he's certainly a cut above that grim Mr. Shine you like. Him and his white leotards. He looks like a fairy to me."

"I suppose you're going to start a whispering campaign about him," Mrs. Phribbs tossed her head. "Well, I don't care. I think I'll vote for General Dirt-Away. A big, jut-jawed man like that should be able to clean up the ghettos and wipe out crime."

"Militarism is no solution to the problems of a Democratic society!"

"Don't shout at me," said Mrs. Phribbs.

They were silent a moment. Mr. Phribbs sighed. "I think I'll vote for that Feeney's Mint doctor. In times like these, the country needs a man of obvious patience, wisdom and understanding to ease our pains and soothe our upsets."

"I don't think he's even a real doctor," said Mrs. Phribbs, still irritated.

"All right! All right! Then I'll vote for Hanrahan. At least you can't deny that he's a real horseback rider. Anyone can walk on a beach."

"You're just voting for him because he's a Republican and you're a Republican."

"Now that's a really rotten thing to say," cried Mr. Phribbs angrily. "We all know how desperately the country needs leadership. And you're implying I'd ignore my duty as a citizen and vote for the party, rather than the product."

Student Forum

Dear Nemo

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter in reply to the one written by Nemo in the Student Forum of the MINER, October 28.

Dear Nemo:

I suppose I am, according to you, a "self-righteous person," since I am answering your letter. I guess you intended to scare off or degrade any reply to your letter by using this remark, but I do not care what you choose to call me.

Your letter, Mr. Nemo, is the epitome of much of what is and what has always been wrong with this country. I am speaking of your ignorant prejudice against the foreign students at UMR. Now, please, don't hit me with a "Love it or Leave it" slogan just because I say that something is wrong with America. I love America, but I do admit that it is far from perfect, and it is people like you that help make it that way.

I am not going to comment one way or the other on the affair of the Iranian students. I want to comment on the attitude toward all foreign students that is prevalent in your letter. Your whole rhetoric is typical of that of the prejudiced person who wants to degrade some group he does not like. For example, you say, "I tolerate them because I must." This phrase, standard jargon for persons like yourself, implies that you merely put up with "furriners" like you do flies. This in effect reduces them to the status of an unavoidable nuisance, a superfluity.

Later, you complain about the students not knowing enough English to suit you. You say, "These people do not make much of an effort to speak English," which you consider rude, and "bad manners." In other words, you think these students have a duty to learn perfect English for your convenience. Tell me, Mr. Nemo, if you were going to Russia, for instance, as an exchange student, would you work your tail off to learn perfect Russian just so every peasant over there could understand you? How much time do you think these students have to learn English before they are sent over here? It isn't enough, I'll wager that. Also, how can you tell with such certainty that these students are not making an effort to speak English? I suppose you are also a mind reader, because that's the only way you could tell for sure. You call the Chinese students' speech "jabbering", another derogatory word. What do you think English sounds like to them, heavenly choirs?

Concerning your comments on personal hygiene, I can only say that you cannot possibly have smelled every Indian and Iranian on the campus. Yet you say, "To be within twenty feet of one is almost unbearable," using the word "one" to once again indicate your belief that all of these people are alike and have no individuality. I have been within twenty feet of many of these people, but I have never smelled anything. On the other hand, I have been within the same distance of a lot of stalwart American boys who have made me choke.

You use the incident in the office as an "excellent example" of foreign students' rudeness and unfriendliness. Again you managed to slip in a derogatory phrase about the student's speech, calling it "broken" English. But aside from that, you tried your mind reading act again. How can you tell that the foreign student had "no important reason—he just wanted to get home faster"? Maybe he had a very important reason that he didn't feel like announcing to the whole office. Again, Mr. Nemo, your psychic prowess amazes me no end. Also, if the American student wanted to be generous and let the other fellow go first, he has that right. He would always be perfectly justified in refusing, if he chose to do so.

Towards the end of your letter you say that "I have the right to be unfair." Well, this is certainly true, but it is sure a poor way to justify prejudice. Later you say, "I hope they do have to return to Iran." This sounds remarkably like another famous battle-cry of prejudice, namely, "Let's ship all the Negroes back to Africa." And finally, concerning your closing zinger, where you say, "they have to earn my respect," I can only say that the foreign students would most likely have better things to do than waste time doing that.

Love may make the world go 'round, Mr. Nemo, but your kind of ignorant hate not only stops it, but makes it go backward. Indidentally, for your information, this letter was not written by a foreign student. But then it couldn't be, could it? They never learn English well enough.

Sincerely,
A "Self-Righteous" person

The Miner:
Re: Letter in Student Forum (Missouri Miner, 28th Oct.)

I would like to address this open letter to three different groups of people on the UMR campus: (1) Mr. Nemo (sic) who wrote the above mentioned letter and to those (most of the students) whom Mr. Nemo referred to in his statement "Like most of the students I tolerate them (international students) because I must." (2) To all those who do not feel they want for Mr. Nemo to speak for them; and (3) the "foreign students" (international students) about whom the letter was written.

First then, Mr. Nemo et al. There is not really much I can say to you. A person of your "OPINIONS" is not often persuaded by those who disagree with them. You remarked that you "tolerate" international students—Webster defines tolerate as: (1) "to recognize and respect (others' beliefs, practices, etc.) without necessarily agreeing;" (2) "to put up with, bear." Your letter would indicate that you would choose the second definition rather than the first. That's unfortunate. There is much you could learn from a people with such a different culture, heritage, and background than your own. Americans have through pride and arrogance never learned to look at other peoples as equals (I'm not referring to wealth, education, etc. but to the basic dignity that should be respected in any man). I delight to live in a world where everyone is in some way, or perhaps many ways different from myself. If this were not true we could have nothing to say to each other when we met.

More importantly, however, tolerance that only "puts up with" can very easily, when you're not looking, become intolerance. The distance between the two is sometimes rather small and easily passed. Intolerance, to Webster, is a "lack of tolerance, especially in matters of religion, customs, etc.; bigotry." You would be much the poorer as a person if that were to happen to you.

Not knowing all the foreign students on this campus, I cannot refute your experiences-only your generalizations. I see and talk with students from other countries daily and have never in the several years I've been here been addressed by one of them in their own language. They always use mine. Now, when talking to each other that's different. Admittedly, I could be annoyed that I can't overhear their private conversations, but then that would be my rudeness, wouldn't it? If they indeed expect us to interpret "their jabbering" (wouldn't English sound like "jabbering" in rural India, for instance? Maybe we should just say "their own language") anyway, if they do, then that would be an impossible situation and something would have to be done-and I would hope that neither the international student nor the American would "immediately become indignant", but perhaps could have a good laugh about it and try again in English. As this school only offers courses taught in English, I'm sure all students have at least a basic ability to speak our tongue or they couldn't be students here. However, many do have difficulty, but in the years I've been here, I've only learned a few words of Hindi, which if in India I would certainly have to jabber in English, or find someone kind enough to help me.

Now, about hygiene-that is baths. Although America has more bathtubs per capita, than, I think, any other country, even here I have encountered more than a few "dirty old, Miners"-lack of hygiene is personally harmful and socially offensive-enough said. I would, however, just for the record note that while reading your article in the Student Union, I looked about and counted 9 students who probably came from another country: 4 of whom were neatly dressed in sports coats and slacks, all of who had on neatly pressed shirts and seemed well groomed, none of whom I smelled. A few weeks ago my wife and I had 6 students from India to our home where she prepared Indian food for them. I can't say that the lack of hygiene of anyone or all of them together was offensive to me or our other guests-on the other hand not having had time the 2 days prior to that to shower, perhaps I owe some of them an apology. They all spoke English, were neatly dressed, well mannered, and clean. But perhaps you've met some bummers. If you like, I'll introduce you to the international students I know.

I missed Mr. Nemo's point about the student not waiting his turn in the Administrative office-if he asked and received permission to go ahead, then he was only in a hurry; if he didn't ask, he was rude. Neither point seems to say anything significant. Some people are in a hurry, some are rude. We don't have to wait for an international student to find that.

Finally Mr. Nemo your remark about "someone who doesn't have the courage to stand up for himself". Who are you? The Registrar's office hasn't heard of you and the editor of this paper only knows that you signed your letter

"Nemo." I could have saved the paper column space but couldn't find out who you are.

Secondly-to those who don't want Mr. Nemo to speak for them: The responsibility to convince our guests, our school, and the general public that we don't feel as he does is even greater since he was in print. Demonstrate by your actions and attitudes, and when you have the chance speak up or the Nemos will cause others to think you agree with them, even if you don't. Unlike Mr. Nemo I do owe these people something. They don't need to earn my respect-they are entitled to it until they give cause that I shouldn't respect them. I am an American and they are guests of my country. They are entitled to the same respect, courtesy, and help that I want as a guest if ever I go to their country.

Third, and last-To the international students: If others feel as I do I hope they tell you so. I apologize for those who fail to show hospitality and pride in their country to their guests. I hope in spite of the inconsideration, hostility, harassment, or disrespect you sometimes encounter here, that you don't come to "tolerate us because you must."

Actually, I think there is room for further consideration for the other-to be showed by both international and American students. But I think that a heavier responsibility lies with the Americans simply because they are the host nation.

Sincerely,
-s-Gerald Chappue

Dear Hortense

Dear Hortense,

Have you ever tried to call the girls' dorm at night? I thought their phone was out of order all year until I was trying to call the Black & White Coffee House the other night and got the dorm by mistake. It was pretty embarrassing, but now I know what is really wrong; there is only one facility to service all the girls. What do you think of that?

Just Wondering

Dear Just,
I'll give it a three. That's on a ten point scale.

Dear Hortense,

After reading your light hearted gibes at our office, we at Traffic Safety would like to share some good news with you. We would like to announce three new parking lots which will open soon to alleviate the problems on this campus forever. One is located just East of the Mule Trading Post; a second will open just South of the Rolla International Airport; and one will be located on the North side of Newburg High School. How about that for good news? I hope that makes some of our students a little more up close than they were.

Your Friend,
Eliot Gibbons

Dear Traffic Safety Head,
I am sending you a bumper sticker you will like. It reads: Rolla-Love It or Leave It.

Dear Hortense,

I just got back from the registrar's office where I got a copy of my transcript for a company I interviewed. This was the first time I got one, and I just found out that it costs $1 just to have one copied. So far this year I have paid $700 in out of state fees, $5 to drop a course which is no longer required, $5 to enroll in a special problems course which was offered after the semester began, and now $1 for a copy of my own transcript. That's $711 of my own money that is now the registrar's own money. WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT THIS SITUATION?

Charles Wartnell III

Dear Charlie,

I called the registrar's office and asked what the drop and add fees and the transcript fee were used for. I was told that they merely covered the costs of the labor and materials involved. Furthermore they explained that the $1 fee for transcripts cost $2 at most schools, and catalogs cost money too. The thinking then seems to be that those who use certain services should pay for them. Personally I don't believe this is true. It seems more likely that this is not only a way to absorb some costs, but it also serves as a deterrent to students to not bother the registrar. Wouldn't it be better to just drop the drop rule for a start?

Dear Hortense,

I am a senior, and I got my orders to report for my senior picture last week. Part of the instructions read that if I didn't show up at 10:01 of Friday night, it would be assumed that I didn't want to be in this year's yearbook. Well, as it turned out, at 10:01 p.m. last Friday I was so drunk I couldn't remember to step into my class and leave alone show up for a picture.

Also my Homecoming date didn't particularly like the idea of leaving in the middle of a dance just so I could get my picture taken. Can you use your influence to get me in the yearbook?

Tim Cappello

Dear Tim,

I talked to the yearbook people, and they say that anyone who missed their scheduled time last week should keep watching the Miner. Hopefully more pictures can be scheduled for early next semester by appointment instead of assignment. The trouble this time stemmed from such short notice by the photographer.

Dear Hortense,

Just a memo to let you read a letter from Dan's lovely homecoming date: "Dear DDR's, I have enjoyed the letters you write to the Hortense column in the Miner. Dan cuts them out and mails them to me each week along with an autographed snapshot for my wallet and a hair. You cannot imagine the joy this brings to me. Sincerely, name withheld by request."

The 69 Member Strong Dan DeRiemer Fan Club

Dear DDR's,

What a coincidence! I got two letters almost exactly like that signed Dan's Fiance. I wonder what it all means?

Dear Hortense,

Now that Baker Gym is finished, why don't we have physical education courses anymore?

Meryl Bakker

Dear Meryl,
Could it be lack of funds?

Dear Hortense,

Acting on your recent suggestion, Jim Beilstein and I moved the Student Union photocopier from the television lounge to the music room. Thank you for the suggestion. If there are any other ideas as fantastic as that one, please come into my office anytime; and we'll take care of it. I'm here any day Monday thru Thursday from 10:00-11:15 and 1:00-2:30.

Sincerely,
Bill Kratzer
Stud. U. Director

Dear Stud. U. Director,
Gee, that's great. Now how about moving the music room.

Dear Readers,

After all the words we've aimed at Traffic Safety, we now feel obligated and grateful to lay some on our faculty Traffic Safety Committee. After years of getting nowhere, Dr. Bobby Wixson's committee has finally made a TREMENDOUS breakthrough which will end most of the students' complaints as soon as the committee's recommendations are approved. The recommendations include plans to 1. Eliminate registration completely, 2. Charge faculty $26 a year to park, 3. Charge students $8 a semester for a parking space, and 4. Create a permit to hunt for any leftover spaces for $2 a semester. Let's hear it for everyone who had a part in presenting this plan to the Board of Curators for their approval!

Today Traffic Safety. Tomorrow the Placement Office. Then Faculty Evaluation. Then the Registrar's Office. Then...

The Iranian Student's Story — I

In recent weeks, the plight of the Iranian students has gotten considerable attention on this campus. Though the misunderstandings and actions concerning the specific students desiring to remain in this country with a renewed visa have been presented, most of the student body is still unaware of the true Iranian cause.

A joint council between the Missouri Miner Staff and the Iranian Students Association has been established to reveal the "cause behind the cause." This is the first of a series of articles that will be published concerning this cause and the sentiments of facts presented will be those researched by this joint council. May each and every person read these articles and be your own judge.

At one time, the Persian empire flourished as one of the greatest on earth. With an agrarian economy and with strong armies, the Persians dominated the entire middle east. As all empires rise, they must also fall. The Persian Empire fell. With the industrial revolution, Persia fell even further behind due to its lack of industrialization. With the discovery of oil, the future looked bright for the Persians as an imminent oil industry was in the making. British companies came into and exploited the vast Iranian (synonymous with Persian) deposits in developing the oil industry. Though the Iranian government has paid for the oil and oil rights, the country remained in a dormancy and fell further behind in the improvement of domestic situations. It was not until 1951 that the Iranians acted to combat the deficiencies in the organization of the oil industry and the imbalances of its economy.

Dr. Mossadegh and the support of anti-imperialistic struggles brought about the nationalization of oil—beginning with the expulsion of the British. The Shah of Iran, the leader of the country, realized the threat that Dr. Mossadegh posed to his dictatorship and had him replaced. With continual demonstrations, one resulting in a bloody confrontation with the Shah's Army, the Shah reinstated Dr. Mossadegh.

Dr. Mossadegh brought about great reforms in not only the nationalization of oil, but in stamping out corruption and stabilizing the economy. A one product economy (oil) was economically insecure. So successful was Dr. Mossadegh, that the country experienced prosperity despite the boycott of Iranian oil, cutting of foreign aid and technical aid. Dr. Mossadegh was identified as the leader of Iran.

In a CIA sponsored coup d'etat of August 19, 1953, the Shah was restored into power. With the aid of SAVAK (the Shah's secret military service), the opposition was silenced. Both the United States and Britain became the dominant figures in the Iranian oil industry with 40 per cent of the oil rights going to the U.S. and 40 per cent going to British.

It has been since that coup d'etat that the downfall of the Iranian citizenry has reached its greatest depths. Iran finds itself as one of the richest in oil reserves, but one of the most "backwards" socially and economically.

It is this "backwardness" that the Iranian Students Association hopes to correct, but until governmental reforms are established and until the Shah's "dictatorship" is broken, these are virtually impossible.

The background of the situation has been laid and any hinted accusation or claims presented thus far will be further discussed in future articles—with referenced backing. The Iranian predicament has been realized by nearly all of the European powers, but has yet to take real effect in the U.S.

Social injustice has been claimed by the ISA though no real incidents have been yet presented. Here are a few to think about until the next editorial.

1. Exports totaled 56.4 per cent of the import-export total in 1954 and by 1961 totaled 13.1 per cent.

2. Iran, though it is a declared neutral country, has a standing army of some 200,000 men. Perhaps its for defense, perhaps it is to keep the people in line.

3. Any person arrested is subject to immediate imprisonment or even execution without a jury trial—a direct violation of the Iranian constitution.

Think of the situation as an American—we have our interests. Think of it on a personal individual basis also—the picture could be different.

Kent State Man Forced Back To Us After Arrest

By Brian Johnson
Toronto (CPS-CUP)

Despite reassurances from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau to the contrary, police are using the War Measures Act to deport Americans seeking political asylum in Canada.

George Harrington, an American citizen living in Toronto, was arrested by police here Wednesday under the Act and was told he would be extradited to the United States, where he would face charges resulting out of last May's protest at Kent State University against the American invasion of Cambodia.

Harrington was living at Kent State as a non-student when four students were murdered by national guardsmen. He fled to Canada last month after receiving a subpoena from state authorities. "And ever since, Canadian and American police have been following me from Vancouver to Toronto," Harrington said.

Two Toronto police picked up Harrington at a boutique in Yorkville Village (a favorite hangout) and arrested him on a false charge of assault and battery, the charge — an excuse to get Harrington down to the station — was dropped as soon as he arrived.

"When I asked what I was being charged with, a cop told me that under the War Measures Act he didn't have to tell me anything," Harrington said. "The cop then said, 'We don't like Americans.'"

Harrington said when he asked to call his attorney the policeman replied: "You call your attorney and I'll kick your balls right up your throat."

"I looked at him," said Harrington, "and he was ready to do it."

Police released Harrington and told him he would be extradited as soon as possible. "But since then, I've been followed everywhere I've gone. My sister-in-law has also been watched. And there's been a cop car outside of my apartment all the time." Police broke into and ransacked the apartment of Harrington's girl friend, Carol Grafton. They told neighbors they were looking for a member of the FLQ.

On the advice of his lawyer and friends and parents in the United States, Harrington flew out of Toronto Wednesday night to return to Ohio before he could be extradited. "The police will be waiting for me at Cleveland Hopkins airport," he said. "They'll know, because all my friends' phones are tapped in the U.S."

"If I stay here, they'd try to throw me in jail for being with the FLQ and I'm not going to be able to prove my innocence. I would have to sit in jail here, and then again in the States. I might as well just eliminate one stage. My main objective is to get political asylum in Canada, but that's impossible now."

Harrington is charged back in Ohio on nine counts: first degree riot, outside agitation, intention to incite a riot, inciting a riot, arson, obstruction of justice, assaulting a police officer, assaulting a fireman, and illegal flight to avoid prosecution.

Eleven students are already in jail on charges arising from the protests at Kent State University and 14 more are being sought.

Although a federal grand jury, a presidential commission, and the FBI have found the national guard guilty of murder, the state authorities have found them innocent and are charging students and professors instead.

Venture: Use a love call to count bacteria.

The lampyridae beetle family. Delight of small boys. Biological light bulb. And prime source of raw material for another Du Pont innovation.

Luciferase, an enzymatic protein with intriguing properties, obtainable only from fireflies. Luciferin, an organic molecule also found in fireflies, but synthesizable. Adenosine triphosphate (ATP), a common energy-yielding substance found in all living cells.

Those are the three main ingredients in lampyridae's love light. And because ATP is common to all living cells, university researchers discovered they could produce an artificial glow by mixing luciferin and luciferase wherever life is present.

Noting that phenomenon, Du Pont scientists and engineers went on to develop it into a practical analytical system. Correlating the intensity of the artificial "glow" with the amount of ATP present in bacteria, they designed a means of measuring the reaction.

The result is the luminescence biometer—the first really basic improvement in bacteria-counting methods since the time of Louis Pasteur. Rather than waiting days for a culture to demonstrate growth density, a doctor or technician can now get a digital readout of bacteria concentration in a matter of minutes.

Other potentially lifesaving uses for the biometer are being suggested every day—such as diagnosing metabolic rates, enzyme deficiencies and nerve damage.

Innovation—applying the known to discover the unknown, inventing new materials and putting them to work, using research and engineering to create the ideas and products of the future—this is the venture Du Pont people are engaged in.

You can become one of them, and advance professionally in your chosen field. See your Du Pont Recruiter. Or send us the coupon.

Nat Hentoff

New Rules

of thinking, on an individual basis, was an interview with Werner VonBraun on the Dick Cavett Show. When VonBraun was asked if he had any ill or guilt feelings about the work he did in Germany during the war he replied, "When your country goes to war, you must do what you have to do."

Mr. Hentoff then went on to speak of the British educational system. The British parents feel a deep concern of whether their offspring becomes a person or just another member of the society. In school the child must better his self or consoldate to an established position. In American education, as Nat Hentoff put it, is "...an instrument of war where a student beats down his competitors."

If there isn't a "fundamental change" in education we will "limp along" at the same rate. However, Hentoff says that alternatives to the system are finally beginning to be felt. Some places the classrooms are becoming more open, letting the students learn at their own speed. Mr. Hentoff recommended the book, "The Lives of Children," by George Dennison to relate these problems and some solutions. The speaker said we will finally break through the rigidities of the teacher lecturing and the students only as receptacles filling up with this knowledge. Many schools are already breaking away from the lecture system to the free study way of learning.

Nat Hentoff made a statement that in 20 years scientists would not be going into national defense work. He was asked what America would do to keep out outside aggressors. Hentoff said that there was a great gulf between pre-nuclear and post-nuclear weapons. America already has enough pre-nuclear weapons to defend herself against any outside attack. But these post-nuclear weapons are, "insane and immoral. . . with no possible justification." About the possibility of a nuclear war Hentoff said, "...we're playing God. . . they won't do it, so we won't do it."

Mr. Hentoff said there will be a transition period where the old order and valves will break down, and either a police state will take over, or it will be the beginning of the "humanized America." There couldn't be anything in the middle, one or the other.

The speaker concluded this about the war in Viet Nam, "Peace with honor is impossible. . . we have no honor now. . . all we can do is get the hell out!"

The fact that America's policy is that "if a country is not democratic, it is bad and must be changed," is false according to Mr. Hentoff. He says the government has never practiced this. . . they support a country because it will help to maintain a balance of power.

Mr. Nat Hentoff was well accepted by the audience, and appreciation was shown by the number of people who stayed the entire two-and one-half hours.

News From The Placement Office

The Placement Advisory Committee met on Thursday, October 29. After a discussion of the critical problems regarding interview signups, the following decisions were made, to be effective immediately:

1. Early signups will be eliminated. If a student has a valid conflict which will prevent him from getting to the Placement Office on the first signup day for both morning and afternoon interviews, he will be allowed first position on the back-up list. The Placement Director will place his initial by the student's signature to confirm the approval.

2. Midyear graduates will be given priority on the establishment of additional interview schedules from the back-up lists after the company agrees to send additional interview representatives.

3. A proposed student priority system with two day interview sign-ups will be considered for possible adoption next year. Details of this sytem will be discussed at a future meeting of the Placement Advisory Committee, with a possible referral to a cmpus-wide student referendum poll.

Appreciation is expressed for the cooperation and help which has been provided by all members of the Placement Advisory Committee, particularly the student members, also thanks to Chuck LaJeunesse and Mr. Paul Ponder for their attendance and participation in the discussions and decisions made at last week's meeting.

CMS Mules Kick Miners, 34-7

By Pat Lyons

The UMR Miners met a steamroller last Saturday, and left Vernon Kennedy Stadium in Warrensburg with a 34-7 setback at the hands of the Central Missouri State Mules. Undoubtedly seeking revenge of last year's 24-0 romp by the Miners, the Mules hit early and hard and kept their hopes alive for a possible share of the conference title. The Miners fell to 1-1 in the MIAA and, though they are still very much in the race, one more loss would virtually kill their chances.

The contest was emotion-filled, as the Miners were trying to rebound from last week's tie with SMS and the Mules were looking for blood after dropping their first decision of the season to Kirksville.

The Mules received the opening kickoff and immediately showed that they meant business. Aided by two quarterback keepers on fourth and one situations, the CMS offense marched for half the first quarter and finally scored on a Steve Eckinger pass. The Miners could not move the ball on their first possession and kicked the ball back to CMS. The Mules promptly put seven more points on the scoreboard on a 35-yard Eckinger pass to All-MIAA end Eddie Coates.

The second quarter was much the same. Eckinger threw to Coates for thirteen yards and a first down and a Rolla penalty took the ball to the UMR 13. From there, Eckinger and halfback Ira Clemons engineered the third CMS touchdown.

The Miners had difficulty moving the ball once inside the fifty-yard line and could not connect on crucial plays. Four lost fumbles also hurt, especially when CMS recovered late in the second half on the Rolla eight. From there, Steve Eckinger sneaked into the end zone for a 27-0 lead at the half.

The second half saw the UMR offense come to life, but crucial mistakes kept them from getting on the scoreboard. CMS punched out another score, depending on the strong running of halfback Clemons, to make the score 34-0 after three quarters.

In the waning moments of the game, freshman quarterback Dale London took over on UMR's seventeen and moved the Miners for their first score of the afternoon, capping it with a 54-yard toss to end Tim

Cross Country Squad Prepares For MIAA Meet This Saturday

By Dan Long

The UMR Harriers won a dual meet and lost both sides of a double dual encounter as they primed for the MIAA conference meet to be held at UMR this Saturday. The Miner cross country squad posted a win over Southwest Baptist College, but had an off day and trailed both Southwest Missouri State and School of the Ozarks in the double dual.

The Miners found Southwest Baptist an easy foe as they swept five of the six top spots, including a first by junior star Bob Rice. Rice posted a winning time of 22:37 on the four mile course. Second was Mike "Pole" Kozacik, who was 27 seconds back at 23:04 in one of his better runs of the season. Freshman Dave Daum was third and UMR's Bob Virgin was fourth. Southwest Baptist's Davidson edged UMR's Jim Hellwege by nine seconds to claim the fifth spot. UMR's Skip Brown, ineligible this year, ran exhibition and posted a 24:09 timing, good for fifth on the squad. The final score was UMR 16, Southwest Baptist 43.

Keith Ault, Southwest Missouri State's premier distance runner, shattered the course record by 22 seconds in leading SMS over the Miners in the first tally of the double dual. The Bears captured the first three spots and claimed an 18-41 win.

Top runner for the Miners was again Rice, who finished fourth. School of the Ozarks also defeated the Miners 26-33, although Rice captured first place. The Miners showed a lack of depth as they had the first, fourth, and fifth spots, but could not top the next six Ozarks runners.

The Miners now ready themselves for the Conference meet to be held on the UMR Golf Course at 11:00 Saturday morning, November 7. The Miners could provide some stiff competition if their fourth and fifth runners place well.

Cross Country standout Bob Rice leads the pack in an earlier Miner meet against Lincoln. Bob is expected to finish well in the upcoming MIAA Conference meet.

Delta Sig Wins Intramural Cross Country

Powell and Kauble teamed up to lead Delta Sigma Phi to the intramural cross country championship on UMR's golf course. The two runners had a team score of 13, seven ahead of runner-up Tech Club. Skip Brown of Tech Club claimed top honors as he ran away from the pack while posting an excellent 10:47 timing. Runner-up was Hawthorne who was running independently. Sigma Phi Epsilon placed third with a team score of 24, while Shamrock Club and Engineer's Club tied for fourth. The final team places and the intramural points they received are:

1. Delta Sigma Phi	93
2. Tech Club	90
3. Sig Phi Ep	87
4. Shamrock	82.5
5. Engineers	82.5

UMR Soccer Club Drops Two, Ties One In Khoury League

By Dennis Kostic

This past week the UMR Soccer Club played three games, losing two and tying one. The first loss came at the feet of the Pat Kenny Club, who defeated the Miners 1-0. The match was a strong defensive game as both clubs were stopped offensively. The Miners had several opportunities to score, but they could not capitalize upon their chances. The winning goal for the Pat Kenny Club came on a corner kick, and the Miners found themselves with their first loss of the season.

In their second game of last week, the Miners tied Waterson's Club 3-3. In the first half the team displayed their offensive power by scoring all of their goals. The first goal was an 18-yard shot by Mike Hammond. Later, Jack Dowling scored on a 5-yard kick, aided by a pass from Bob Doyle. Near the close of the first half, Hammond passed to Dowling who booted his second goal of the game from three yards out. In the second half, the Miners' offense could not score, and Waterson's capitalized upon three penalty shot opportunities, making each one count, and the Miners found themselves tied in a game they should have won.

In their last game, played on Sunday, the Rolla Club lost to Rigazzi's 4-1. Playing without some of their starting eleven and with their fullback filling in at goalie, the Miners were handicapped both offensively and defensively. Rigazzi's took the lead very quickly and held it throughout the game. The Miners avoided a shutout when Andy Padleski booted their only goal.

The UMR Soccer Club is now 2-2-1 in Khoury League competition. The Miners have found stiff competition in the league and must face Rigazzi's once more, hopefully to gain revenge. The club's remaining schedule is as follows:

Nov. 8	Harris Tailors
Nov. 15	Tower Grove
Nov. 17	North Side Kickers
Nov. 24	Tower Grove
Nov. 29	St. Louis South
Dec. 1	North Stars
Dec. 15	Waterson's Club
Dec. 20	Rigazzi's

Coach's Corner

... Billy Key

By Dave Antonucci

This week the Miner would like to present Coach William Key to the UMR students. Coach Key is the UMR athletic director and is also the head coach of the Miner basketball team.

Coach Key attended McKinley High School in St. Louis. In high school he lettered in four varsity sports which were basketball, baseball, football, and track. He attended Central Missouri State College where he lettered for three years in basketball, and baseball.

Before coming to UMR Coach Billy Key coached at Wellsville High School where he coached basketball, and baseball, Munroe City High School, Harris Teaching College and Nickel State in Louisiana.

Coach Key, in his seventh year at UMR, is depending on the improvement of last years eleven returning underclassmen. He said it is hard to predict how the team will do this year because of the junior college transfer students attending the other colleges in the conference. The coach is uncertain about this years starters because of the strong bench he will have to work with.

Coach Key, in his twelve years in college coaching has a record of 159 wins to 104 losses, in his twenty-one years of coaching he has an overall record of 305 wins to only 167 losses.

The Miner would like to wish Coach Key, Assistant Coach Kirksey, and the UMR basketball team the best of luck this year.

Meet The Miners

... Bob Rice

By Jim Everest

The featured Miner for this week is junior Robert Rice. UMR's top cross-country runner, Bob has posted one first place so far this year, has broken a course record, and has yet to finish below third place. Along with running cross-country for two years, and lettering twice, Bob also runs track, and has lettered two times in that sport.

Bob came to UMR from Raytown South High School in Raytown, Mo. While in high school, Bob lettered two times in cross-country and in track.

Bob is an independent, living in the "yellow house" and eating his meals at Tech Club. He belongs to M-Club, and AIAA, and also finds time to be an outstanding scholar. Bob's accumulated grade point average so far is about 3.63, and is carrying 16 hours. Last semester he had a 4.0 average in the 18 hours he was carrying. Bob is planning to be an Aerospace Engineer, but believes the prospect for an A. E. might be a little cloudy at the present.

On October 10th, at the track meet with Lincoln University, Bob broke the old course record here, with a fantastic time of 24.48. This also broke Bob's personal record of 26.02, which was posted at the meet with Greenville College, on September 26.

Bob believes that the UMR cross-country team will finish at least in the top ten of the conference. One of the reasons for this, he believes, is the fine job of coaching done by coaches Ed Thorpe and Keith Brown.

Bob Rice

One improvement that Bob would like to see is better transportation to and from the meets. Bob wouldn't comment on where he will place compared to all the other runners in the conference, but one of his running mates gave the opinion of most people when he said confidently, "Bob will finish in the top 5."
