Kidnappers plans "shot down"

Industry threat foiled

By CHRIS NOONAN

It has been known for quite some time that industry has been hiring professors away from the country's universities. In this endeavor, Big Business has been moderately successful on most campuses. This is due to the fact that corporations have stooped to offering higher salaries and better fringe benefits than colleges can afford.

Fortunately, for UMR, these underhanded tactics have not been as successful. Apparently this disturbed one corporation, The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Corporation, so much that it sent one of its renowned blimps to Rolla to obtain a few professors as specimens. An attempt would then be made to discover what motivates these educators, if not greed (or, as industry likes to phrase it, "personal gain").

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri had received word, through their collegiate espionage ring (which is just like an industrial espionage ring, only different), that such an attempt would be made.

In response to this threat to Rolla's educational community, the Curators ordered that SAMANTHA (Shoots At Mean And Nasty Things High in the Air) be brought up to full power.

SAMANTHA is UMR's ground-to-air defense system. The business end of this unique system is the parabolic reflector on the roof of the Curtis Laws Willson Library. In times of peace and tranquility this facility is just an antenna for communication with other parts of the world through a telecommunication with other parts of the world through a telecommunications satellite.

It has been rumored that the antenna is for the Chancellor's home video system and also that it is for the triggering and initial telemetry of an intercontinental ballistic missile which is stored in a silo under the Hockey Puck. These rumors have yet to be proved.

The stated purpose for the blimp's presence in Rolla was that it was passing through on its way to Notre Dame to provide televised aerial shots of a football game. But this ploy fooled no one.

When the "America," one of Goodyear's four blimps, arrived over Rolla for its devious mission, it was confronted by SAMANTHA. Normally the SAMANTHA system might not have been powerful enough to fight off this attacker, but the Chancellor was ordered to disconnect his television, and the ICBM's nuclear material was placed in the UMR reactor which was added to the system's power supply.

In its confrontation, the blimp was severely damaged when SAMANTHA let loose a beam of almost pure energy. This apparently wiped out most of the blimps control mechanisms. The craft was allowed, as a gesture of good will, to land at Vichy National Airport for some hasty repairs.

In an effort to preserve some credibility the blimp did go to Notre Dame. This was obviously a last minute arrangement.

We have since received word that Notre Dame is missing two tenured professors.

Students eaten

By KEN HARDY

Several students met an untimely end last week when the UMR computer tired of its regular fare of punched cards.

Three Comp. Sci. 73 students and a nuclear engineering major were suddenly swallowed whole by the card reader in the hall of the Comp. Sci. basement.

Professor Plumber, head of the Computer Center, said the students' remains were translated into long strings of bit patterns and spooled indefinitely on the input queue.

Due to slow turn-around time. The exact fate of the unfortunate victims will remain a mystery for some time.

University Mall construction to begin soon

Jess Stink, Ox-Scent Enterprises manager, revealed Monday, during a private interview with this reporter, plans for a new University Shopping Mall which will be known as the U-Mall. "What we propose is to enclose the Quadrangle between the Student Union and the Library and then subdivide it into stories and office space."

The plan originated, according to Jess, when computer projections indictated that office requirements would soon outstrip available space. "Computer projections showed that we couldn't meet our requirements past 1984 even if we did away with students and class rooms, which was our original plan."

Also sighted was poor current utilization of the land involved. "Students don't really utilize this space to any advantage. Our plan, however, will make every inch economically productive within a few years."

Plans call for the construction to be financed through general bonds and an increase in students activity fees. "Every student will pay and every student will own a share, a share in the financial future of this school."

"Our plans have been furthered by intense competition for the student dollar. UMR and the town of Rolla currently split student revenues about fifty-fifty. We'd like to see this approach seventy-thirty in the longer term."

Proposed shops for the Mall are to be built around this central theme of total student needs.

"Also we feel that we can help UMR to retain top faculty and administrative personnel by giving them first crack at the new space." Space is to be leased associated with the system.

Should they leave the university they will be forced to sell their "establishment" back to the University at only a small profit. Then such space would be made available to the other employees. "I myself have purchased the space to construct my own 'U-Laundry-Mat.' It was my wife's idea she said, 'Honey, you've been cleaning up for years.' Right then I knew I had to do it. Besides we figure we can staff the place with members of the Chinese student association and make a bundle."

Several student organizations have also made commitments to lease space. KMNRR has purchased the rights to the U-Bookstore and Headshop.

UMR student wins Noble prize in Physics

SOURCE: PBI

Last Tuesday, it was announced in Stockholm, Sweden, that William Miner, a UMR Senior (but freshman by hours) in Civil Engineering, has been awarded the 1980 Noble Prize in Physics for his English 1 paper, "Parallel Universes: They Do Exist!!!"

According to Bill, his discovery, which has had a revolutionary impact on the physics world, was made totally by accident.

"I was sitting on the bed in my room at the dorm (Bill is a resident at the Quad's Kelly Hall) trying to think of some BS topic for my English paper, when a friend called from Southwest (Missouri State University). He said he had heard I was going to be kicked out of UMR once and for all, and that I should come down to SMSU where I could raise my cumulative from a 0.39 to a 3.99 in a semester or two. He said that the hardest course they had to take was underwater basketweaving and then I asked him if it was any easier than fluids. Anyway, after he had told me about the blonde and the wild party, he had to go, so we said goodbye and I hung up."

Bill continued, "While I was walking back to my room, I saw a couple 4.0 nerds in the TV room watching this series called 'Cosmos' with that guys who's always on the Tonight Show, Carl Sagan. Anyway he was talking about Einstein, relativity, and black holes, and then mentioned that black holes could be pathways to a parallel universe. That's when it hit me. My squirrely English teacher couldn't know a darn thing about parallel universes, so it would be the perfect subject to BS about."

Miner went on "Anyway, I wrote the big long technical paper about the existence of parallel universes and how UMR and SMSU must be parallel universes because of how opposite everything is down there. I mean, just go down there for a weekend and see what it is like to be thought of as only a 'sex-object.' What a way to go!!! Anyway, my teacher really bought my line of bull and gave me an 'A Plus' on the paper. But instead of giving the paper back, she sent it to a friend of hers who is a professor in Physicks, and he said that I must be a 'genius.' Boy was I shocked because the last time a professor called me that was when I succeeded to get a score of -10 percent on a Math 2 test."

William went on and on,

"Anyway, he said that it was a brilliant work in modern theoretical physics and I must submit to the Noble prize people and get it published as soon as possible. To make a short story longer (Koenig and Oakes aren't the only ones paid by the inch.) I got this letter in the mail Monday that said I had won the Noble Prize in Physics for 1980. At first I thought it was a joke, but then I saw it on TV and knew it was true!"

So William Miner will be leaving in January to attend the official ceremony. As far as what he was going to do with the $50,000 prize, Bill said he was thinking about sponsoring a "Bill Miner Party Weekend" in the spring with free kegs of Bud until the money runs out. But first, Bill said he had a couple of LARGE debts to pay off.

Freshman disappearance still unexplained

By LAURA BENDER

A long and tiring search ended early Saturday morning after a freshman at UMR, whose name was not disclosed, was found curled up, sitting in a corner of the closet in his dorm room. He had been missing for 3½ weeks. The first person to notice his disappearance was his Computer Science 73 T.A., after not receiving the student's third, fourth, or fifth program nor appearing to take the first exam.

The freshman's roommate, Jack Daniels, was in the same class. Jack received a phone call from the missing boy's parents. They came down to Rolla, and with the help of UMR-police, a full scale search began.

The T.A. suggested that the distribution center should be checked for program No. 3, the program he was last seen working on. A student at the distribution desk told the police that "he picked up his program, looked at it, screamed, and threw it back at me."

When the T.A. looked at the program he discovered the cause for the outburst. The program contained 107 errors, 51 warnings, and 12 extensions.

This led to suspecting the disappearance being a result of ultra frustration and mass confusion. Last year a student with similar symptoms was found under a keypunch-folded, stapled, and mutilated. Another student was found in an infinite do-loop. The police no longer suspected a kidnapping.

A psychic was called in to try and help find the student.

But everytime she tried to concentrate, she could only picture a jumbled stack of data cards.

The authorities were puzzled and stumped. The trail of punch cards and the trail of ticker tape were dead ends. It was feared that he had become a member of the WATFIV Cult.

The WATFIV Cult is a group of Com Sci 73 students, many taking the course for the sixth time, who assemble and chant the "Frank G. Walters tapes."

The freshman was not to be found among the problem solvers.

Two weeks had passed since his disappearance. All things pointed to the fact that the computer had eaten him and his job card (which was also missing).

As some students know SUB (Scripture Utilization Bureau) is a group of concerned students who believe that religion and college go together like salt and sugar. We, the member of SUB, try to provide religious inspiration for the poor souls living in Rolla, the Black Hole of Missouri.

In our continuing series of helping to educate the students in the Word, this week we will be reviewing Fr. Guido Sarducci's liberal interpretation of the TEN Commandments for college students. Here is Fr. Sarducci's list:

- 1) Thou ist only one Lord, thy God, who ist all good and all powerful and you shalt not put thine professors above him.
- 2) Thou shalt not use thy name of the Lord, thy Chancellor, in vain.

3) Thou shalt not call Sunday Tuesday by believing it is Monday to get out of the Sabbath.

4) Thou shalt honor thy professor as he is old and senile.

5) Thou shalt not kill, even those who scope off of you and get a higher grade.

6) Thou shalt not commit "F".

7) Thou shalt not steal thine neighbor's test.

8) Thou shalt not lie in thine bed when thou hast class.

9) Thou shalt not covet thine neighbor's files.

10) Thou shalt not covet thine neighbor's Busch.

Well there you have it. If you have any comments, drop us a line at "SUB Scriptures" care of the Miner.

1980 Miner Queen Candidates

SISTER TERRESIA MCLINTY

The Shuman Center is proud to nominate Sister Terresia McClinty for the honor of Miner Queen. The sister has a long history of selfless work with the mentally ill and should be ideally qualified to work with your staff.

MELINDA MORGANSTERN

The UMR Agricultural association presents our candidate for Miner Queen Melinda Morganstern. Melinda is the Aggie Sweetheart and we feel represents the best in UMR co-eds.

MEG "THE RACK" MCGUILL

The members of Kappa Nu Wave decided to put up our idea of a futuristic Miner Queen. Our lady of the "punk times" is a freshman in aerospace engineering who's extracurricular activities are too numerous to mention. We will say that this blue-haired attraction is the type of girl you'll never forget. With her robot grace and her monotone voice she can mesmerize all.

REALLE "MATA" HAIRI

We, of the Foreign Association of Yenti Worshipers, believe that "Mata" Hairi exemplifies all the qualities a Miner Queen should. Mata is a sophomore enrolled in mining engineering and hails from Nepal. She wishes to return to Nepal "where I can help my people dig holes for themselves..." Besides being dedicated to the furtherance of her "people", Mata enjoys sunbathing and brushing her hair. We are sure that you will vote for this stunning blond with the mysterious eyes.

WHAT MINER QUEEN IS ALL ABOUT

This year each campus organization nominated an animal, vegetable or mineral which attends UMR to compete for the title of Miner Queen. On October 31, these things and the Miner staff had a get-acquainted-and-sick tea in the beautiful office of the Miner so that that editors could personally meet each and every candidate.

Now it is the student's turn to make a decision on which, who or what should be Miner Queen. Each UMR student is asked to vote for the five things which he does NOT think deserve the honor (or dishonor) of being "Miner Queen - 1980" and to drop their selection off at the Miner office in Building t-1, by November 10.

In order to prevent the block voting problems involved in previous campus-wide elections, the Miner has come up with a unique solution to the problem. After November 10, the results of the balloting will be tabulated. The thing which has received the least number of votes will be named Miner Queen. In the event of a tie, the winner of a coin tossed will be named first runner up and the loser of the toss will become the new Miner Queen.

The Miner Queen will receive several prizes for winning the title. First of all, it will receive a dinner for two at McChellows plus a different paper sack to be worn over the head for every day of the week for the University food store. Also the queen will receive a life time subscription to the BUMR Engineer magazine. Finally the Queen will be given a special guest spot in an upcoming "Joe-Bill Miner" column.

GLORIA PANDERWILT

The Sisters of Kenzo Laurent Blass present one of our outstanding sisters as our Miner Queen candidate for 1980. Gloria Panderwilt is Kenzo L's social chairman and is an active little sister of Izod Gucci Klein. Besides being busy with these activities she has also had the honors of being "Pickle Week" Queen and "Artichoke Festival" Queen. But these honors mean nothing compared to the honor of being Miner Queen. Kenzo L. sincerely believes that this brunette sophisticate would grace any competition with style.

YOU NAME IT

The Association of Intra Brain Astronauts is proud to present our candidate. She is extremely active in PCP, MDA and LSD and should be well equipped to represent the Miner. Unfortunately, we have been unable to discover her name, but we feel this is no handicap.

PRINCE HASEED
OB'SCENE

The Association of Israeli students is greatly pleased to be able to nominate Prince Haseed Ob'Scene as a candidate. We feel he deserves this "honor" and all that goes with it more than anyone we know.

MANURA COMPOSTE

The he-men of Iota Dun Beta have the privilege of having entered a "shoe-in" candidate, Manura Composte. Manura is a real "down-to-earth" candidate from Peculiar, Mo., where she models Homemakers Loungewear and works as a beauty operator. We feel that this svelte clothes horse is the epitome of a true Miner Queen fresh out of the closet. We hope you will agree.

ELKE HOLIC

The brothers of Sickma woods. She also considers Rau are happy to present herself a "party animal", their Miner Queen candidate, Elke Holic. Elke is a member of EZ Sorority at Cape Girardeau, where she is a senior recreation major. We feel that Elke's bright eyes and bushy tail will make any Miner's horns grow. She is quite an "out-doorsey" adventurer that feels quite at home in the

MISS FEE-FEE LAFIRM

We the men of Tappa Clappa Zappa (house of wine, women, and song) are proud to present Miss Fee-Fee LaFirm our candidate for Miner Queen. Fee-Fee is an active senior majoring in undecided engineering. She is active whenever possible and has always dreamed of being a "queen". We feel she is a natural choice for Miner Queen.

The Ballad of Bob Koenig

By Bill Miner

What was his purpose?
Who was his dad?
His mom didn't want him,
but the law said too bad.
He could walk at age one,
and talk at age three.
But when would he write —
we'll just let that be.

What shall I call him,
said his mom with a smile.
I'll call him Bob,
at least for a while.

Bob really did grow,
and that put a strain,
not on his body,
but instead on his brain.

He started school,
but not right away.
Not cause he's stupid
but because he was gay.

Bob's not really gay,
that's only a rumor.
I just made it up,
to add some more humor.

After all, (you remember!)
I get paid by the inch.
Did you hear that, Bob,
you son of a binch!

Now, back to the story,
its not over yet.
It doesn't get better,
on that you can bet.

Bob entered Rolla,
a school of engineers.
What their lacking in girls
they make up with beers.

Gee, Bob, I'm sorry,
this had to be done.
This job doesn't pay much,
but I sure do have fun.

It's really amazing,
I keep getting side-tracked.
So let's do it some more,
fact by fact.

Bob took up writing,
to get some respect.
But that plan back-fired,
and now he's pen-pecked.

"Bonzo Journalism,"
that was the name.
It got him no glory,
and certainly no fame.

Now he writes lines;
just to see how he's doing.
But the readers out there
are constantly booing.

Come on Bob!
Mr. Illiterately-Graced.
If you don't get it right
You'll be getting replaced.

This poem ain't just over,
it dies only with age.
If they set the type right,
you'll be turning the page:

Bob took up writing,
he thought he could wize'em!
But as it turned out,
it's just plagerism.

Who wrote this poem?
Was it written for jokes?
One thing for certain,
it wasn't Al Oakes!

This poem was written,
just to fill space.
But, true, it was needed,
to save Marilyn's face.

Mary Ford doesn't like it,
but thats just to bad.
It's filling up space,
and that makes her glad.

Are you still reading?
It's your decision.
Cause from here on out,
it's all repetition.

What was his purpose?
Who was his dad?
His mom didn't want him,
but the law said too bad.

The poems almost over,
I think I should quit.
It's no longer 'bout Bob,
that big idiot.

Bob's gonna get me,
just give him some time.
I needed that verse,
to make this line rhyme.

So let's end it here,
and head to the Bar.
There's plenty of beer,
and it can't be too far!

Oh, what the hell,
let's keep it alive.
I was just kidding,
I'm so full of jive.

If nothing else,
you can use the "Miner"
For a versatile,
cat box liner.

If that doesn't work,
you can roll it up.
And if that pooch does it
wrong,
smack the damn pup.

That verse you just read;
it wasn't too hot.
If I'm gonna stay ahead,
I'd better stop!

So ends the ballad,
of big Bob Koenig
And wouldn't ya' know it,
nothing rhymes with Koenig!

In order to "go after" the student fast food business, which is currently fueled by Ox-Scent Interprises food business, a "McChellows" will be among the first stores constructed. Also a Dumbley's Fried Chicken, "It's Indispensably Delicious", is planned.

Businesses designed to provided stress relief include the "Cut Your Test Lounge" and the "University Adult Bookstore."

"And the interest of fair competition OPI has also plans to open a laundry-mat. Everybody get's a shot from us."

Quite a few other stores are planned, and will be announced at a later date.

"Because the businessmen will be leasing directly from the university they will not be paying local taxes. In order to keep things fair we will be charging a university surcharge that will go towards the University Center Deficit. Our plans also include continued growth in the deficit. A strong deficit growth rate is key to our plans."

This reporter wishes to thank Mr. Stink for this exclusive interview and his kind cooperation. I personally am sure that all true UMR students will want to support our teachers. Especially as Parker Hall is going to issue tickets, to be validated in the stores, good towards graduation.

What's My CrimeNew game show comes to Rolla

By MARY FORD

One of the hottest game shows to come along in a long time has the distinction of being hosted in, you guessed it, Rolla, Mo. This game show is, to quote Fred Silverman, "A pioneering effort to reach the 17-24 age audience by doing the same thing for the game show circuit that 'Animal House' did for the movie industry." In fact the new game show, "What's My Crime?" has a rather bizarre twist in the "Animal House" genre. It is a game show based on the college students' constant battle against academic and scholastic probation in order to reap the many profits of graduation. After an extensive talent search, B. K. Robertson, Dean of Students, was awarded the honors of host. "It was felt that B. K. was the natural for knowledge of the subject and his obvious enthusiasm.

Chancellor Marchello was a close contender before he changed his P.R. strategy, but we have retained his services as a substitute host even so, due to his previous experience," Silverman whispered confidently.

The network's advertising excerpt from a taped game show went somewhat like this:

B. K. — "O.K., Darlene, your sorority was having an ice cream social for pledges when one pledge fell in Schuman pond while supposedly "chasing" a duck. She subsequently contracted pneumonia while receiving treatment at the infirmary for a scraped knee. Our panel will conduct an investigation to see if this was a hazing incident and you will have a chance to defend your sorority."

Darlene — "The pledge has a notorized statement right here saying that the incident was innocent and only due to lack of coordination and intelligence. I don't see how —"

B. K. — "Well ... Darlene, I'm afraid that you won't have a chance at that $24,000 job offer this time. The panel has decided that it was a flagrant hazing and you get to spin the wheel to see how many privileges will be taken away while you and your sorority are on social probation."

Fred Silverman concluded at the end of the sample screening, "We, here at the network believe that this will turn B. K. into a celebrity kind of like 'J.R.' in 'Dallas'. So, my fellow UMR attendees, stay tuned for more of "What's My Crime?" hosted by B. K. Robertson, if you dare risk it.

B. K. Robertson, Dean of Students, in cooperation with "What's My Crime?" producers, has already chosen the contestants for the first couple of shows. Above is shown some of those lucky few who have been chosen for this honor.

Chancellor's house to receive more work

The Chancellor's house has been undergoing a series of renovations in an effort to restore it to original conditions. These renovations have been made to comply with Paragraph 3625 of Section IV of the Statutes of the Board of Curators which states "the residence of the Chancellor of the University of Missouri of Rolla must forever be maintained so as to honor the work of the original architect." It seems that Mrs. Applebaum, wife of the Chancellor in 1938, overlooked this regulation and had the house remodeled to meet her specifications. The rule was again brought to the attention of the Board of Curators in the spring of 1964 and thus renovations have been carried out as quickly as possible since this time to restore the house to its original state of art.

Recently, however, a picture has surfaced which was taken shortly after completion of the house in 1883. This picture is highlighted by the moat which surrounds the building complete with a drawbridge connected to the front walk. From the frothing water in the photograph, it is assumed that the moat was filled with either imported Amazon piranhas or man-eating alligators from the Florida everglades. An in-depth study is being conducted at this time by a subcommittee of the Academic Council to determine whether piranhas or alligators were used to protect Chancellor's houses at major universities during the 1880s. The original purpose of the moat, it is thought, was to maintain the privacy of the Chancellor's residence.

Chancellor Marchello was concerned at first with the high cost of feeding the animals but this dilemma was solved by a decision to utilize food scraps from Rayl and Thomas Jefferson cafeterias.

Student organizations, however, have threatened to file suit with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals if this plan is carried out. As a final note,

Mrs. Marchello expressed dismay over the fact that she would no longer be able to go out the back door to the garage. The garage addition, however, was not in the original plans and demolition is to begin next week.

Bill and Joe kidnapped from Al Oakes

By BOB KOENIG

BILL MINER

Wake up and open this door you stupid bastard. I've had enough of this shit!! Bills frantic attempt to wake Al were met with cries of protest of surrounding Phi Saps "Shut up you moron, damit what time is it, who the hell is that." After five or ten minutes of frantic pounding Al Oakes finally managed to open the door. Al was twisted, twisted beyond belief. His eyes were nearly swollen shut and his body was ravaged by debaucheries, debaucheries financed through Bills continual pain. Bill was fed up and rightfully so.

Al was twisted, twisted beyond belief. His eyes were nearly swollen shut and his body was ravaged by debaucheries, debaucheries financed through Bill's continual pain.

"What the hell do you want at this time of the morning," asked Al. "Justice!", screamed Bill, "I'm tired of taking all the shit you hand out and getting nothing in return." "Al if you don't shut that guy up a fine is the least of the things you're going to be hit with," drifted out from next door.

"Quiet down and get inside here."

"You can't shut me up," screamed Bill, "I will be heard no matter what you say." Thoughts of Schuman Pond however motivated him to enter the room and allow Al to close the door.

"Okay Bill what's the gripe?" "As if you didn't know. Mister big shot hack writer and amateur gynecologist, I'm tired of being used to support your filthy habits. Joe and I thought our trouble were over when that other idiot quit the paper. But no, if there's a fast dollar to be made at the expense of a helpless person some bastard will come along and grab it. I'm a normal human being I want to graduate. I want to go out with a girl with an I.Q. of above fifteen. I have feelings. I want to grow and mature, but year after year I'm hauled out to do the same stupid things. Drop the same stupid classes. When will it end. When will I be free?"

Bill was running out of like it."

"No way shit face I've heard those promises before. That's what the last guy said."

"Listen Bill I'm tired now you shut your ass up and get out of here or I'm going to bring back Boom-Boom and give her three kinds of clap!"

JOE MINER

Joe was puzzled. Why in the world had Bill called him up and asked him to meet him at 209? They hadn't talked to each other since that water fight some months ago, and it just made no sense!

Just then Bill walked in and came over to Joe's table. Bill had on a trench coat and dark glasses. When he took off the glasses his eyes looked like two plates of Alex's Greek Spaghetti.

"Joe, we've got to talk. It's time for things to change, and the only way that's going to happen is if we work together."

"Bill, what in God's name are you talking about?"

"Al, of course. He's been pushing us around for too long. It's time we pushed back. Oh sure it hasn't been that rough on you. You haven't got half the women on campus trying to castrate you, and you don't have to write those stupid Bob Koenig articles. All you've got to do is flunk out of school and pay off a few gambling debts!"

"Wait a minute, fellow. You think I like putting up with all that shit from my fraternity brothers. Do you suppose I like being an uncontrollable drunk? You've got it tough. Bull shit!!"

"Okay, okay let's not fight. That's the way Al's been controlling us all this time. We've got to work together if we're going to beat this rap."

"Alright, Bill. I buy that, but what can we do? Face it, he's got us over a barrel."

"Easy, we kill the bastard. Sure, maybe they'll just send somebody to take his place, but let four or five of them disappear, then we'll see who they can get to write us. Then you'll see what kind of treatment we get."

"Wait a minute, Bill, let's not get carried away. Sure things are bad, but surely there has got to be another way. Maybe we could talk to him."

"I've tried that. He just laughed at me. I tell you there's no other way we've got to kill him, and we've got to kill him soon. If he finds out what we're up to he can destroy us with a flick of his pen!"

"Okay, quiet down. People are starting to stare. Now suppose, just suppose I was willing to go along with this crazy scheme. Just how would we go about it?"

"Well, Joe, I've been studying his habits and believe you me it's been a pretty gory job. At first I thought we could run him down outside Mark Twain elementary school trying to pick up girls but we'd probably end up doing away with some innocent fourth-grader that was in his clutches.

The only other pattern to his behavior is that every Monday night he sits down and does perverted things to us while watching football. So I figure: we get some plastic explosives, and just as Roger Staubrain unloads a long one...

"An aide I must find, a man of my kind"

A conqu'ring prelate surveyed his estate rubbing his hands with glee.

"An aide I must find, a man of my kind Who'll keep all the natives nicely aligned.

Someone as rotten as me, as Someone as rotten as me."

On the door was a knock and ent'ring in shock came a slave, in obvious distress.

"A man out here states that he's one of the greats whose successes with rebels the whole world relates and he says that his name is Dudley, Dudley, Name is Dudley Cress."

Then shoving aside the slave in his stride came a hun with an ominous tread.

Tall as a spire, no voice could be drier.

He sounded and looked like a hitman for hire.

"You need me," he sneered as he said, he said, "You need me," he sneered as he said.

"I freely admit I'm the world's hottest shit, my credentials are bound to impress.

I pull wings off of birds, I feed orphans on turds,

When I kick them my enemies double up in thirds, for I am the wonderful Magnificent Dudley Cress. The sov'rein did smile and pondered a while the fate of his down-trodden lands.

It soon became plain that between them their reign would subjugate everyone in that domain.

He'd crush them between his two hands, his hands, He'd crush them between his two hands.

Out of mis'ry forlorn a hero was born, one whose name all would soon bless.

"Womens Lib Motto"

A young couple just married were in their honeymoon suite on their wedding night. As they undressed for bed, the husband, who was a big burly bruiser, tossed his pants to his bride and said, "Here, put these on." She put them on and the waist was twice the size of her body. "I can't wear your pants," she said. That's right said the husband, and don't you forget it. I'm the man who wears the pants in this family!

With that she flipped him her panties and said, "Try these on." He tried them on and found he could only get them on as far as his knee cap. He said, "Hell, I can't get into your pants." She said, "That's right, and that's the way it's going to be until your goddamn attitude changes!"

Miners to do battle with Indians

By DAVE ROBERTS

The Southeast Missouri State Indians will be the next in line to try and knock the UMR Miners from the ranks of the unbeaten.

UMR, idle last week, will play host to the Indians at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Jackling Field on University Day. The Miners are 8-0 overall and 4-0 in MIAA play. Miner head coach Charlie Finley is glad to have Southeast visiting Rolla this year. "Before last year, I don't think we had won in Cape (Girardeau) in about 20 years," Finley said. "I think it will be a good game Saturday."

The Miners clipped Southeast in a 9-7 battle last year and the UMR-Southeast clash is almost always exciting.

This season Southeast has been disappointing. The Indians were picked to win the MIAA in a pre-season poll by the league's head coaches but haven't come close to living up to those expectations. Southeast is 3-6 overall and evened its conference record at 2-2 with a 23-19 victory over Northwest Missouri State last week.

Finley was one of the coaches who picked

Southeast to finish atop the conference and still has a lot of respect for them.

"I still feel like they have fine personnel," he said. "I picked them to win the league and I haven't seen anything that would make me change my mind about them. They're a much better team than their record shows. They played a tough non-conference schedule and had some tough games in the conference."

Southeast has a potent offense. The Indians rank second to UMR in total offense, averaging 311.4 yards a game.

Leading the Indian rushing attack is junior tailback Ernest Edwards. Edwards is currently the MIAA's top runner with 591 yards. He finished second in the league in rushing last season with 960 yards.

But Edwards will have his hands full. The Miners have had a knack of giving 100-yard-a-game rushers fits this year. UMR leads the nation in rushing defense, allowing just 35.2 yards a game on the ground.

UMR has a commanding lead in rushing defense in the conference. The Miners have allowed 282 net yards rushing compared to second place Southeast's 1,121 yards. The Miners have allowed only three rushing touchdowns.

The Southeast quarterbacking duties have been split between junior Joe Young and senior Scott Mosley. Both have played in all nine of the Indians' games and both are completing around 50 percent of their passes. Together Young and Mosley have thrown ten touchdown passes.

"They pass a lot and use quite a few receivers," Finley said. "They got some pretty good quarterbacks in Mosley and Young."

UMR senior Craig Heath won't be chasing down the Southeast duo's passes Saturday. The two timeall-MIAA cornerback who has started in the Miner defensive backfield four years has been moved to offense to shore up an injury riddled receiving corps. He will start at flanker against the Indians.

"We've already moved Heath to flanker," Finley said. "If we had an injury in the secondary, he would move back. But as of now he is an offensive player." Heath has been bothered all season with a groin injury and the coaching staff feels playing offense will bother him less. Taking his place at cornerback is sophomore Randy Hauser.

The week layoff allowed the Miner injuries to heal but Finley isn't sure how it will effect his team's play. "We haven't had an open date this late in the season in several years," Finley said. "But I don't think the week off will hurt."

Junior fullback David Fischer was expected to miss the rest of the season with broken ribs but he will be in uniform Saturday. Finley said Fischer will wear a flak jacket to protect the ribs.

Fourth straight year--

Tankmen win MVC Crown

By PAUL GLADIS

The UMR water polo team traveled to SIU-Carbondale last weekend to participate in the Mississippi Valley Conference Championships. UMR won the tournament with ease. This is their fourth straight year as conference champions, and as a result, another flag is to be hung from the ceiling of the pool proclaiming the victory. It's a shame there's no good competition in the conference.

In their first game, UMR defeated SIU-Carbondale, 23-7. They then downed SEMO, 20-9. Finally, Arkansas-Little Rock suffered a defeat to UMR, 15-8. It was evidently an easy weekend for water polo. Individual statistics were quite impressive.

This was just a taste of what they'll be hit with this coming weekend. The quality of play this weekend must be at its peak. UMR is

SMS wins MIAA championship

By JOHN DANIEL

Southwest Missouri won the MIAA Conference Cross Country Meet in Cape Girardeau last weekend. The harriers from Springfield placed five runners among the top ten finishers to claim the championship for the fifth time in the last six years.

Southwest finished with 32 points while Central took second with 67. Southeast was expected to challenge for the team title and in the top ten, but had to settle for 71 points and a disappointing third place when their season number two and four runners finished well back in the pack.

Northwest claimed 89 points to take fourth place and the Miners finished fifth with 133 points. Northeast finished with 146 points and Lincoln finished last with 175 points.

Individual honors went to Central's All-American, and possible national champion, Mark Curp. Lincoln's Michael Lamb claimed second place while third through tenth place all went to runners from Southwest and Southeast.

The top three teams along with the top three individuals not on one of the first three teams qualified for the NCAA Division II Meet in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Freshman Jim Bullard led the Miners with a 16th place finish, just 17 seconds away from the last national qualifier. Senior Brent Haefner completed his fine career for the Miners with a 20th place finish. Freshmen Kevin Stock and Dan Marley finished next for the Miners, and were followed by sophomore David Moore.

With three freshmen and a sophomore finishing on the top five for the Miners, the harriers have plenty to look forward to. This year the Miners took second in their own Miner Invitational and then won the UMR Invitational later in the season. With a strong squad returning, the Miners can expect to have another successful season next fall.
